BRADLEY ATTACKS ON 40-MILE FRONT

REDS CAPTURE MINSK; 150-MILE ADVANCE IN 11 DAYS

LAST BIG ENEMY BASE IN RUSSIA FALLS TO ATTACK BY TWO ARMIES

City Encircled, Stormed After Soviet Forces Cut Last Railways West — Nazi Retreat Called a Rout.

LONDON, July 3 (AP).—Minsk, White Russia capital and last major German stronghold in the prewar Soviet Union, fell today to two Soviet armies which thus capped their 1944 summer offensive with its greatest triumph.

Premier Stalin announced the victory in a broadcast order of the day.

The city, whose population was about 300,000 before war and enemy occupation left it a battered ruin, fell to the storm troops of Gen. Ivan Cherniakhovsky's Third White Russian Army and Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky's First White Russian Army which rode down all resistance in another incredible burst of speed.

The great base on the dividing high grand between the Baltic and the Pripyat Marshes to the south was taken only 11 days after the Reds launched their central front offensive. That offensive now has carried Russian armies forward more than 150 miles over a battlefield 300 miles broad, with spearheads making a maximum advance of 180 miles.

Minsk on Warsaw Route.

The victory opened the gates to a surge down the main railways to Warsaw, Polish capital, 300 miles to the west, to Wilno and Riga in Lithuania and Latvia to the northwest. Minsk is but 15 miles east of the pre-war frontier of Poland and Russia and its many-sided pivotal communications afford first rate routes into South and Central Poland and the Baltic countries.

The fall of the city came almost to the day of the third anniversary of its occupation by enemy troops — the Germans announced its capture on July 1, 1941, only a few days after the beginning of their invasion of the Soviet Union.

Stalin said Soviet troops captured the city by encircling maneuver and assault. He described Minsk as the last major German strongpoint in Russia and "a most important strategic center of German defenses in the western direction."

Stalin ordered a salute of 24 salvos from 324 Moscow guns—

U. S. DEFICIT FOR YEAR 49 1-2 BILLIONS; DEBT REACHES 202 BILLIONS

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP). THE Treasury ended the 1944 fiscal year with a deficit of $49,594,587,895. This brought the total public debt, including guaranteed obligations, to $202,625,456,521.

The Treasury's daily statement for June 30, the end of the fiscal year, showed Government receipts and expenditures reached unprecedented peaks.

Receipts, including an appropriation to the Federal old-age trust fund, totaled $45,408,442,028, compared with $23,384,645,502.54 in the preceding year. Expenditures, including public debt retirements, totaled $93,743,514,863.84, compared with $78,182,348,640.87 in the preceding year.

War spending totaled $87,038,671,937.86, compared with $72,108,862,204.06 in the previous year. In addition, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and its subsidiaries spent about $2,682,000,000 for war activities.

ARNOLD SAYS RAIDS CUT NAZI GASOLINE OUTPUT TO A THIRD

Plane Production Reduced by Same Amount, General Asserts.

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP).—Gen. H. H. Arnold, Air Forces chief, reported today that Allied bombers cut German gasoline production to not more than one-third of normal capacity, forcing the enemy to ration insufficient fuel supplies.

Combined with the destruction of aircraft factories, which cut the Nazi output of military planes to about one-third of planned production, Arnold said that many bombing missions against Germany now are unopposed by enemy fighters.

Even critical installations, he added, now are defended by not more than 100 fighters, compared with the swarms of as many as 600 which formerly rose to battle Allied bomber formations.

Asked at a press conference whether he considered destruction of aircraft factories or of refineries the more important, Arnold pointed out that destruction of plane factories affected only the enemy air force, whereas the oil supply affects "everything that moves on wheels."

DEWEY SAYS MAIL IS ARRIVING BY SACKFUL SINCE NOMINATION

Wishes He Could Thank Everyone Personally for the Good Wishes.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 3 (AP).—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's mail since receiving the Republican presidential nomination has been voluminous and is arriving by the sackful, the Governor said today.

"The mail is perfectly enormous," Dewey told reporters at a press conference. "There has been so many thousands of letters we haven't even made a count.

"I should like to be able to thank everybody personally for his good wishes. Since that is physically impossible, I would like to take this means of expressing my warm gratitude to the many thousands of people who have written and asking them to understand the impossibility of my personally answering each letter."

INBOUND HOLIDAY BUS, TRAIN RUSH DUE TOMORROW

Standing Room Filled but Most Get Passage on Trips Out—Many Stores Closed.

Diehard St. Louisans, determined to leave the city for at least part of the extended Fourth of July week end, filled standing room in outbound trains and busses today as terminal employes prepared for an incoming avalanche tomorrow that is expected to match the record traffic volume that has been carried since Thursday.

At Union Station, most of those seeking passage were able to get it, but both the Greyhound and Trailways depots said many passengers were forced to wait for busses later than the one they planned on taking. The majority of traffic at bus terminals was for points within a 100-mile radius of St. Louis. Ticket sales, which had been suspended to southern points, were being made without restriction.

For many St. Louisans, the holiday amounted to three workless days in a row. Many retail stores, including the three major downtown department stores and the majority of other members of the Associated Retailers, remained closed today. Monday shopping hours will be in effect Wednesday.

Since it is not a legal holiday today, banks and stock markets remained open, but will be closed tomorrow. At the request of the War and Navy Departments, nearly all big war plants are operating as usual on both days, and military posts are having no special observances.

Under ordinances in St. Louis and most county municipalities, fireworks will be limited to organized displays. Approximately 9000 persons attended the opening last night at Public Schools Stadium of the Moolah Temple circus and fireworks show for the benefit of Shrine charities.

Fireworks displays will be given tomorrow in Webster Groves and Clayton for the benefit of police and firemen's funds. All performances start at 8:30 o'clock.

An aerial show starting at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow will take place at Kratz Field on St. Charles road.

9 NAZIS IN FLYING FORTRESS FORCED DOWN IN SPAIN, HELD

VALENCIA, Spain, July 3 (AP).—Nine German crewmen in a Flying Fortress making a forced landing at Valencia airport were interned Thursday.

The Flying Fortress, undamaged, bore German markings and appeared to have been patched together with parts from Allied planes that crashed in German territory.

DEWEY INDICATES HE'LL MEET G.O.P. GOVERNORS SOON

May Travel to Conference on Presidential Campaign Within Month, He Says.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 3 (AP).—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey indicated today he may travel within the next month to a conference with other Republican Governors on presidential campaign plans.

Avoiding comment on national issues, the G. O. P. nominee told a press conference he doubted that he would make any speeches soon.

He said, however, that he had discussed the possibility of a meeting with the other 25 Republican Governors, including John W. Bricker of Ohio, the vice-presidental nominee.

Dewey said no definite plans for such a meeting had been made but that he talked it over informally with Gov. Earl Warren of California after Dewey's nomination at Chicago last week.

"I May Have to Travel Some."

Personally, Dewey said, he would like to stay in Albany for the next two months, spending week ends at his farm near Pawling. He added, however, that "I may have to travel some in the next month."

Dewey said his week ends at Pawling would be devoted largely to study and to writing speeches. He had no plans, he said, to receive political visitors there.

Republican campaign headquarters will be opened Wednesday in the Roosevelt Hotel in New York City, Dewey disclosed, adding that it was the "Theodore Roosevelt Hotel."

Dewey will work the Fourth of July in the Governor's mansion, with no visitors on his schedule. He will go to Pawling Friday, where a reception by the townspeople is planned that afternoon. Pawling has a population of about 1200.

No Comment on Finland.

He declined to comment on questions dealing with the possibility of eliminating foreign policy as a campaign issue and said he had not studied the effect of severance of relations by this Government with Finland.

He turned aside a query as to reasons why Gov. Warren declined to enter the contest or the vice-presidential nomination before Bricker was chosen.

The Dewey campaign planners have taken a leaf from the book of Wendell L. Willkie's 1940 campaign and reversed it. They believe Willkie started too soon after the nomination, talked himself out long before the election.

In contrast, they want to keep Dewey largely under wraps, not CASUALTY STAGING POST SET UP IN NORMANDY BY R. A. F.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, July 3 (AP).—The first complete forward staging post at the front line in Normandy has been established by the Royal Air Force Transport Command for the preparation of casualties for flights to England.

As the front line moves forward, other staging posts will move with it, and some will handle freight as well as casualties. More than 3000 casualties already have been evacuated by air since D-day by the R. A. F. alone.

LUFTWAFFE NOT IN NORMANDY OR RUSSIA, CAPTIVE NAZI SAYS

NEW YORK, July 3 (AP).—The British radio today quoted a captured German officer:

"In Russia we were told that the Luftwaffe was in the west. In Normandy, we are told that the Luftwaffe is in the east."

The British Broadcasting Corporation said the officer gave this as his reason for surrender two days after his arrival from the Russian front.

AMERICANS CLOSE IN ON GARAPAN, SHELL IT HEAVILY

City Hemmed in on 3 Sides—60 Pct. of Saipan Now Under Control of Yanks.

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

UNITED STATES PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, PEARL HARBOR, July 3 (AP).—American marines held strategic new ridge positions today above the town of Garapan and nearby Tanapag harbor, on the northwestern coastal stretch of Saipan which may be the center of a now imminent showdown battle.

Gains of from 500 yards to a mile were made along the entire front Saturday, bringing about 60 per cent of Saipan under American control, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced. Garapan was surrounded on three sides.

A combined Allied press dispatch from Richard Johnston described the "razing" of the shell-scarred town by artillery, naval guns and mortar fire.

City "Mass of Flames."

"Battered by day-long naval gunfire and artillery as well as by mortars from the heights above the city and Tanapag harbor, Garapan has become a mass of flame which illuminated the sea throughout the night," Johnston wrote.

"The razing of the west coast town provided an awesome spectacle. . . . Through a glass I could see many fires, but to the naked eye they merged into one immense orange glow into which floating tracer shells from warships vanished.

SIENA OCCUPIED BY ALLIES IN ITALY AFTER HARD FIGHT

Bradley Sees More Victories Like Cherbourg

Force in France Identified as U. S. First Army.

IN NORMANDY, July 3 (AP).—Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley said today that the spectacular American victory at Cherbourg was an "indication to the enemy as to what he can expect from now on to the end." It was disclosed yesterday that the force under Bradley's command is the American First Army.

"The fact that our troops were able to overcome this stiff resistance so quickly and capture approximately 35,000 prisoners was due to the fine fighting qualities of our infantry, the close support of our artillery and the close cooperation between our ground and air forces," Bradley's official summary said.

"The Navy also contributed materially when they appeared off the defenses and bombarded them for about three hours. It is impossible to accurately measure the effect of this fire but we do know that naval gunfire, especially that of large calibre, is demoralizing on troops who cannot fire back.

Speed Surprised the Germans.

"According to the statements of some captured German officers the enemy was very much surprised at the quickness with which we cut across the peninsula near St. Sauveur lo Comte and then at the rapidity with which we cut to the north and kept pushing without giving him a chance to properly organize and regroup.

'All this speaks well for our state of training and morale and is an indication to the enemy as to what he can expect from now on to the end."

Bradley disclosed that the Ninth Division, which first cut across the peninsula, also carried out the final mopping up operations on Cap de la Hague.

Bradley's American First Army, together with the British Second Army, forms the Allied Twenty-first Army Group in France.

Yanks Take Cecina, Push On Toward Livorno—British Only 9 Miles From Ancona.

ROME, July 3 (AP).—French troops and American artillery and tank forces occupied the medieval metropolis of Siena, 31 miles below Florence, today after more than a week of heavy fighting through tough German defenses.

The occupation touched off a wild demonstration by the population which cheered and applauded and paraded its famous silk flags for the first time in four years in a belated impromptu celebration of the ancient "Pallo delle Contrade," in which horses representing each ward of the city race for a flag.

Fall of the city coincided with a rapid advance by the Eighth Army west of Lake Trasimeno in the center and gains up the Adriatic coast which brought the fall of Osimo, only nine miles from Ancona.

A few hours earlier Americans on the Italian west coast crushed German resistance at Cecina, after the most vicious fighting since the fall of Rome.

Heavy Street Fighting.

"Exceptionally heavy street fighting occurred which caused us, as well as the enemy, considerable casualties, and we lost a number of armored vehicles in the engagement," an Allied spokesman said.

"Cecina itself was taken only after the most vicious opposition. The enemy mined and booby trapped the town, and resisted from house to house."

German prisoners reported they were ordered to hold Cecina at all costs, but they were thwarted when the Americans forged across the Cecina River on a wide front north and east of the town.

The enemy was reported throwing more reinforcements into the fighting, with elements of 10 divisions facing the Fifth Army. Some of these were remnants of forces shattered earlier in the campaign.

The Americans, last reported 17 miles below Livorno, forged steadily ahead after taking Cecina.

Siena Little Damaged.

Sid Feder, Associated Press correspondent with the French forces, said a view of Siena from a plane before its capture showed little damage had been done to

AMERICANS GAIN UP TO 3 MILES IN FIRST HOURS OF NEW DRIVE

Push to South on Cherbourg Peninsula Overruns Town 8 Miles Below St. Sauveur—Caen Area Quiet.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, July 3 (AP). — Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's American First Army struck south along a 40-mile front on Cherbourg peninsula today, smashing forward up to three miles in the opening hours of a savage attack.

Supreme headquarters said the offensive opened at dawn along the front stretching across Cherbourg peninsula from St. Lo d'Ourville east to the Carentan area, and then southeast to St. Lo, road junction near the center of the Normandy front.

In one advance the Americans captured St. Jores, eight miles southeast of St. Sauveur le Vicomte and near the road junction of La Haye du Puits.

Quick Turnabout.

The sudden American attack—bursting forward after a thunderous artillery barrage — followed quickly the mop-up of Cherbourg and gave the Germans no rest. The speed with which Gen. Bradley turned his First Army about to move south surprised many military men.

The attack took the form of a giant squeeze from all sides to capture all of the Cherbourg peninsula down toward Granville, 30 miles southwest of St. Lo.

The doughboys were fighting through mud-bogged French fields and in a driving rain.

Low-hanging clouds restricted air support for the American offensive during the morning, but in the afternoon the skies cleared and waves of Allied planes came over the front to hit at the Germans.

Pause Around Caen.

On the British sector around Caen, the Tommies widened their Odon River bridgehead by occupying Fontaine-Etoupefour, three miles southwest of Caen.

But the British front was generally quiet. Field Marshal Erwin Rommel appeared to be regrouping his seven Panzer and four infantry divisions which had taken a terrific mauling in three days of 25 attacks against the British. Indications were that Rommel might be attempting to reform for an all-out counterattack, but a British officer said "we are ready."

One officer said Rommel's attempt to erase the British salient

War Output Lags, Workers Asked To Put Victory Ahead of Fishing

COLUMBUS, O., July 3 (AP).—Lt. Gen. Brehon Somervell declared today war production was continuing to lag and asked that fishing trips be put off until victory is achieved. Production has fallen off steadily since November, he added.

The rubber situation is "very bad," the chief of the Army's Service and Supplies Forces said to reporters. Production, he said, is 16 per cent below the manufacturers' estimate, which in itself "wasn't high enough."

The manufacture of trucks also is far behind, he said, especially the heavy equipment used in hauling materiel forward from invasion beachheads. There is a serious lag in production of malleable steel and castings.

"Until we realize the war isn't over and stop delaying production," he said, "we'll just delay victory that much longer. Berlin is 475 miles from the Channel and we've got 15 miles. Put off that fishing trip; it can come after the war is won."

The reason for shortages, he said, is overoptimism and lack of sufficient labor in many areas.

"And there is going to be less man power available as we go along," he added. "Mobilization is not over by a long shot. This is no time to be thinking of demobilization. It's a long way to Tokyo."

June Plane Output 8049, Lowest Since Last September.

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP).—Production of military aircraft dropped to 8049 warplanes in June, the lowest record since last September, Charles E. Wilson, executive vice-chairman of the War Production Board, reported today.

The June total, 853 planes short of May output, was explained as being due to a shorter work month and the "failure to meet schedules on the part of three companies producing smaller types of planes," caused by difficulties with certain parts.

"The decline is not alarming and would be dangerous only if it continued, which it won't," Wilson said, "or if it was caused by something basic like man-power shortage, which it wasn't."

BIG U. S. BOMBERS, SOME ON SHUTTLE TRIP, HIT THREE POINTS IN BALKANS

German Planes Augment Robot Raids on Britain —Churchill Statement on Flying Bombs Expected Tomorrow.

LONDON, July 3 (AP).—From 500 to 750 Flying Fortresses and Liberators, including Eighth Air Force units which flew from England in a shuttle flight, bombed Nazi oil storage points and refineries and transportation facilities in Romania, Hungary and Yugoslavia today.

Planes from Italian bases left a smoke column 18,000 feet high over the former Shell oil storage plant outside Belgrade, Yougislav capital, Rome dispatches said. Other targets were an oil storage port at Giurgiu, south of Bucharest, and the Malaxa locomotive works east of Bucharest.

The German radio reported an attack on the Budapest area for the second straight day and said 35 American planes were downed in fierce air battles. Rome dispatches, however, quoted crewmen as saying the opposition was limited.

57 Nazi Planes Downed Yesterday.

Yesterday, 57 enemy aircraft weer shot down by Allied planes in raids in the Balkans and the Po valley. Fifteen heavy bombers and eight other aircraft were lost.

Rail yards, oil refineries and airplane factories near Budapest and in various parts of Yugoslavia and Austria were the main targets.

Allied air activity in support of troops in Normandy, meanwhile, was held to a minimum by bad weather. Rocket-firing Typhoons, described by a German prisoner as "the most terrifying thing I have ever known in battle" carried air support to the heart of the Brest peninsula, however, with a slashing afternoon attack on a transformer station at Mur de Bretagne.

A German road convoy of ammunition and gasoline trucks moving up toward the sector of the new American offensive also was shot up by Thunderbolts near Vire, 40 miles south of the battle lines.

Robot Assault Continues.

The Germans, after a lull of several hours beginning at midnight, resumed their flying bomb attacks on England early today and augmented these assaults with scattered raids by regular aircraft. A number of casualties was reported.

The German-controlled Paris radio identified Plymouth and Portsmouth as the principal targets of the robot attack, and said both suffered heavy damage.

There was considerable speculation on what Prime Minister Churchill might have to say in the House of Commons tomorrow. It is generally expected he will give a frank report on the flying bombs.

Bombing Truce Spurned.

A German radio offer to cease the robot attacks if the Allies cease bombing Germany met only defiance here. The London Daily Sketch commented:

"Such insolence calls for a reply. We have been patient, but the time has now come when the German nation should be made to realize that we have the power to retaliate—an ever-growing power."

One German radio commentator declared the flying bombs were being turned out without pause by German factories, and said the Nazis have "a tremendous number of these dynamite meteors."

"There is no known method for defense against them," he boasted.

NAZIS SAY PATTON'S ARMY WILL BE IN NEW DRIVE

NEW YORK, July 3 (AP).—The Berlin radio, possibly fishing for information about Lt. Gen. George S. Patton Jr., said today that German military circles expect "Patton's American Army group" to open an offensive in the near future.

Patton has been in Britain, but his exact status in the invasion has not been defined.

Berlin said Allied moves indicate new attempts to achieve a decisive breakthrough in Normandy and "possibly the Allied command will postpone . . . this offensive . . . until Patton's American Army group has been brought up. German military circles expect this army group to open an offensive in the very near future."

BRADLEY OPENS ATTACK IN FRANCE ON 40-MILE FRONT

was a major action which had cost the enemy "elaborate losses and a terrific mauling."

He said Rommel has suffered "a very bloody crack on the nose" and declared that "the Boche took such a knock" Saturday that he was unable to stir yesterday.

Headquarters said 40 German tanks were knocked out in Saturday's fighting.

A German broadcast, picturing the Caen area battle as going in Nazi favor, said the British had lost 138 tanks in the course of 36 hours.

A senior British staff officer said the situation on the whole Normandy front was "extremely satisfactory." He remarked that German tactics thus far "are unlikely to serve as a textbook for repelling invasions." Rommel's tactical reserves had failed to hold the British and he had been forced to bring up strategic reserves from the rear—which he likewise wasted away in costly but fruitless attacks on the British.

Supreme headquarters said the official count of prisoners in Normandy now had surpassed 40,000, two-thirds of them taken by Americans. Gen. Bradley reported that his American troops had captured 35,000 Germans while field dispatches from Cherbourg put the number taken by Americans alone as high as 42,000. These reports indicated that the number of prisoners taken on all fronts may be as high as 55,000.

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's superiority in artillery has smashed every attempt of the Germans to infiltrate into the Odon river bridgehead. The Nazis made 25 attacks in 72 hours, the latest a light stab shortly before dawn yesterday. A barrage from British heavy guns broke it up before it even reached infantry positions.

British patrols expanding the Caen salient found Brettevillette, two miles south of Tassel Bretteville, unoccupied by the Germans, although heavily mined and boobytrapped.

Last night the London radio declared "gigantic Allied landing operations" took place Sunday on the coast behind the British forces while armored vehicles, tanks, troops and ammunition also were landed on the southeastern side of the Cherbourg peninsula.

The German-controlled Paris radio said the British battleships Nelson, Rodney and Warspite were standing off the coast this morning heaving shells into German positions in the Odon River sector.

Supreme headquarters said the Germans had put five SS armored divisions, two regular armored divisions and four infantry divisions into the fight for Caen. One tank corps of two to four divisions was in action in Russia as recently as three months ago.

Berlin broadcasts said 10 British divisions, including four armored units, were engaged in this sector, and declared the fighting "exceeds the tremendous battles of materials of the first World War."

American forces have launched a major drive southward all along the line extending from St. Lo d'Ourville on the west side of Cherbourg peninsula, east to Carentan and south to St. Lo. The Caen area is quiet.

BOMBS KNOCK OUT 3 GERMAN FORTS IN TWO MINUTES

By NED NORDNESS

WITH THE UNITED STATES AIR FORCE IN FRANCE, July 1 (Delayed) (AP).—Three of the most powerful forts along the coast of Europe—the outer breakwater defenses of Cherbourg harbor—succumbed to bomb concussions in a matter of minutes and saved the Allies time, ships and lives.

A two-minute bombing run on June 26 caused the Germans, ordered to hold on to the end, to run up the white flag. This was disclosed today after Allied officers had questioned German marines and naval officers who had manned the forts.

The forts on the outer mole of the central breakwater controlling the entrance to the harbor are of a vast thickness of concrete and granite. It was deemed they alone could withstand a barrage of shells and the Germans figured they could hold out indefinitely.

But United States Ninth Air Force Thunderbolt dive-bombers dropping 500-pound bombs brought a quick surrender.

"These men are real Germans —not ersatz soldiers," said a United States intelligence officer. "They are of that type of Nazi who doesn't surrender unless there is no other out.

"Their officers told us they had no intention of giving up until the bombs fell. Then the concussion was so terrific in the thick bastions there was no other thoughts in their minds but to get the hell out of there."

DISAPPROVES SERVICE BILL

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP).—President Roosevelt today disapproved a bill which would have allowed the computation of double-time credits for foreign service between 1898 and 1912 in determining Army retirement pay.

In a statement the President termed the act "grossly discriminatory." Prior to 1912 Army enlisted men received double-time credit for service overseas. The act would have permitted the computation of pay for that time in fixing retirement allowances.

AMERICANS ATTACK IN DRIVING RAIN

By HAL BOYLE

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS IN FRANCE, 6:57 P. M., July 3 (AP).—American troops, attacking at dawn today in a driving rain on the front west of Carentan, gained from one to three miles and captured the hamlet of St. Jores in the first few hours of their offensive.

The heavy morning rains, following several days of showers, made the going tough and muddy for the foot troops, but the skies cleared in the afternoon and bomb-carrying Allied planes shuttled back and forth without opposition in support of the drive.

The jump off was after a night-long artillery bombardment.

For hours before the doughboys sprang to the attack, the murky skies were lit with flashes of heavy artillery fire and the ground for miles around shook from the intensity of the barrage.

The assault was made only a few miles from the area where the Yankee forces chopped the peninsula in half two weeks ago Sunday, isolating thousands of Nazis who finally were mopped up two days ago.

With the Allies already exerting pressure on the east flank and in the center of the Normandy battlefront, this new blow on the west flank gave the Germans the problem of holding against forces building up along the entire length of the front.

Heavy rains turned every dirt road in Normandy into a quagmire, and the attacking Americans had to belly across soggy pastures and through dripping hedgerows under conditions remembered by every veteran of the last World War. The mud was ankle deep.

The attacking Americans pushed forward from the area below Barneville on the western coast of the peninsula east to St. Sauveur le Vicomte. The drive was made through rolling farm country studded with small hills and some woods. Hedgerows gave good screen for German snipers, but the American infantry was supported by heavy artillery, including some of the most powerful guns yet used in the French campaign.

NEBELWERFER WAIL AND ROAR OF GUNS COMPETE AT CAEN

By ROGER GREENE

ON THE BRITISH FRONT IN NORMANDY, July 2 (Delayed) (AP).—This is being written to the music of the "sobbing sisters"—high-wailing shells from six-barrel German guns that make you hit the dirt in a hurry. They remind you of storybook witches, screaming maledictions as they ride the skies on their broomsticks. But if the singing of the sisters is rough on the ears it is nothing compared to the brass-throated arias of the British guns massed like pipes of a giant organ in this battle-roaring corridor.

German prisoners who have fought on the Russian front say they have never heard such a terrible din and they are fed up with it.

"It is no use any more," said a bedraggled, bleary-eyed Nazi just brought in. "You have too many guns. If we stick our heads up from the trenches they are blown off. All we can do is to keep our noses in the muck night and day."

(The German weapon is a six-barreled rocket mortar which the Germans call a nebelwerfer and which American soldiers have dubbed "screaming meanie.")

FLYING BOMBS KILL BRITISH RETIRED GENERAL AND WIFE

Maj. Gen. Scott and Aimee Byng Are Victims, as Is Sir Percy Alden, Campaigner Against Slums.

LONDON, July 3 (AP).—Flying bombs have killed Maj. Gen. Sir Arthur Scott, retired, his wife, Aimee Byng, a novelist, and Sir Percy Alden, prominent in the campaign against slums, it was disclosed today.

Gen. Scott, 82 years old, began his army career in 1881, and retired in 1920. In the First World War, he commanded the Royal Artillery of the Third Army and later the Twelfth (Eastern) Division.

Alden, 79, was secretary and treasurer of the Sulgrave Manor Board, and had lectured in the United States on labor and social problems.

Nine Killed in Bomber Crash.

MUROC, Cal., July 3 (AP).—Nine men were killed yesterday in the crash of an Army B-24 bomber on a combat training flight, Muroc Air Base officials reported today. None was from the St. Louis area.

20 MORE DANISH TOWNS REPORTED JOINING IN STRIKE

Copenhagen Workers Ignore Pleas to Resume Jobs — Nazis Blame Reds.

STOCKHOLM, July 3 (AP).—Danish workers' demonstrations and strikes against the Germans were reported spreading today to 20 towns, including Helsingor and Kalundborg in Sjaelland and Aarhus in Jutland, the second largest city.

At Helsingor, gas, electricity and water were cut off, the Free Danish press service reported—possibly a Nazi action to force the workers back to their jobs.

In Copenhagen, appeals by prominent Danes to the workers and a German offer to restore public utilities service appeared to have failed to halt the general strike, now in its fourth day.

Throughout the day the German-controlled Danish radio broadcast appeals at half-hour intervals for the people to return to work.

The Danish Liberty Council was said to be spreading word to the patriots to continue the strike until the Danish Nazi "Schalburg Corps" is removed from the country. German orders lifting a state of siege in Copenhagen and restoring utilities was said to have had no effect on the situation.

(The Berlin radio said the strike was falling off by Monday noon, and declared the Wilhelmstrasse had denied reports of street fighting and of many persons being wounded. It added that the strike was fomented by "Communists," and that the Germans in Copenhagen took energetic measures to "nip in the bud this political nonsense.")

Nazis Reported Using Bombers, Tanks Against Partisans.

LONDON, July 3 (AP).—Reports from the Spanish-French frontier, relayed by way of Madrid, said the Germans had thrown tanks and bombers as well as infantry into their drive against French partisans in the Dordogne egion of southwestern France.

After two days of fighting, the Nazis were said to have recaptured Bergerac and advanced to St. Cyprien, where they freed 150 collaborationists who have been held as prisoners. The retreating Maquis were reported to have transferred their activities 50 miles south of Bergerac, taking over the rail junction at Armande and cutting the Cahors-Bordeaux railroad line.

An article in the Bordeaux newspaper, Petite Gironde, said authorities in southwestern France were faced with "real civil war."

A report reaching Port Bou, Spain, said Gen. Georges Nadal, Chief of Vichy's pro-German militia in western France, had been captured by the Maquis.

FOUR U. S. PILOTS DOWN FIVE NAZI PLANES IN FIRST COMBAT

ROME, July 3 (AP).—It was just a bunch of greenhorn Thunderbolt pilots Lt. Richard L. Johnson, Chicago, Ill., led into battle against 14 Messerschmitt 109s in the Bologna area Saturday, but when the shooting was finished, six enemy fighters were shot down and four others were damaged.

Johnson, credited with one victory, was the only pilot who had ever been in aerial combat before.

One newcomer, Lt. Howard W. Cleveland, Yonkers, N. Y., got two Messerschmitts, while three other pilots shot down one each.

General and Kirkwood Aid Lead Secret, 'Unusual' Raid in France

'We Really Beat Up the Place,' Says Maj. Gen. Quesada of His 'Really Hot Mission.'

AN ADVANCED AMERICAN NINTH AIR FORCE FIGHTER BASE IN FRANCE, July 2 (Delayed) (AP).—A dive-bombing mission of such unusual importance that Maj Gen. Elwood (Pete) Quesada himself led the flight was carried out late today by Ninth Air Force fighter pilots in advance of the big American push in the Cherbourg peninsula.

The young General who commands the Ninth Tactical Air Force led the flight, flying within a few feet of the ground to loose 500-pound delayed-action bombs on the target. Gen. Quesada said details of the mission could not be disclosed for several days.

"It was a fair flight," grinned Quesada on his return. "We really beat up the place. On the way bock we went down and strafed a concentration of troops and supplies near St. Lo."

With the General on the mission was Col. Dyke Meyer, Kirkwood, Mo. They and six other pilots in Thunderbolts made up the bombing flight, while four other planes provided top cover.

There was a tense air of expectancy at this advanced base when it became known that the 39-year-old General was coming in on a special mission. On the way to the briefing area, Quesada told pilots:

"This is really going to be hot. We are doing a job of extreme importance—unusual importance."

While the raid was on, everyone around headquarters was restless. The mission was dangerous and they feared for Quesada and Meyer, despite the fact that they are two of the best airmen in the business. As planes came back, officers and enlisted men stood on the field counting them. When they saw there were 12, all relaxed.

"We beat hell out of the objective," Quesada said, adding: "It's good to get away from the desk for a change. Meyer and I are old men compared to the youngsters, but we're not too old to get in a lick."

Col. Meyer, 38, is the son of Mrs. Anna M. Meyer of 208 Altus place, Kirkwood. He was graduated from Washington University in 1927, and was an engineer in St. Louis for Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. until he entered the air force two years later. Before going overseas, Col. Meyer was for two years assistant to the commanding offices of a base in Newfoundland.

44-POINT ALLIED PEACE PROGRAM REPORTED READY

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 3 (AP).—An abridgement containing the main points of the United Nations peace program has been received by the Brazilian Government and Brazil has been officially invited to participate in the peace conference, the Agencia Meridional said today, quoting an exptemporaneous speech by President Getulio Vargas.

The agency reported that Vargas, in a speech Saturday at Belo Horizonte, said 44 items had been agreed on for discussion.

An Associated Press dispatch from Washington June 11 said the European Advisory Council in London was rushing a draft of surrender and occupation terms for Germany. The council is composed of American, British and Russian diplomats. Any agreements made in London would have to be approved by the "Big Three" before being transmitted to other of the United Nations.

CURTIN HINTS U. S. MAY USE BASES IN PACIFIC AFTER WAR

CANBERRA, July 3 (AP).—Australian Prime Minister John Curtin, referring to the question of American acquisition of Pacific military bases after the war, said today he had no doubt the United Nations would "make requisite arrangements to insure the necessary strategic interests" to maintain peace.

MAJOR BILLS TO BE SHELVED UNTIL AFTER LABOR DAY

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP).—Congressional leaders have decided, House Majority Whip Ramspeck (Dem.), Georgia, said yesterday, not to resume major legislative work until after Labor day. He said the leaders would come back Aug. 1 but, unless some emergency has developed, would provide either for another adjournment or for three-day recesses.

CHERBOURG BEING RAPIDLY CLEARED FOR ALLIED USE

By LEWIS HAWKINS

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, July 3 (AP).—The Germans "did a very clever job of demolition" at Cherbourg, but no worse than expected, and clearance of the port now is going forward rapidly, Maj. Gen. Cecil Ray Moore, chief of the United States Army engineers in the European theater of operations, said yesterday.

The General, sent in with the Ninth Division, when they took the port, found the beaten Nazis had scuttled almost every ship in the harbor. They also damaged the signal control system of all the waterfront railways and blasted the longer bridges.

Moore said the port should not be regarded as "another Naples." He said it was primarily a passenger and not a cargo port, and handled only one-sixteenth of the Naples pre-war tonnage.

Potentially, he said, it is capable of handling about a seventh as much as Naples, which cleared 3,600,000 tons in 1938.

While the Navy cleared the underwater obstacles and mines, Army engineers of the regular and special units ashore have removed many mines left on the quays, in the wreckage and along the beaches.

60-FOR-1 REPRISAL BY NAZIS

NEW YORK, July 3 (AP).—Fifty civilians and 10 guerrillas have been shot in reprisal for the killing of a German soldier in one northern Italian town, the British radio said yesterday.

Quoting a correspondent on the Italian front, the broadcast said German troops broke down the doorways of a house "and rushed inside, killing everybody."

1,715,000 JEWS REPORTED KILLED IN SILESIA CAMPS

Church Group Says Nazis Gas Victims at Two Centers and Then Cremate Them.

NEW YORK, July 3 (AP).—A Geneva dispatch to the New York Times today said 1,715,000 Jews had been put to death by the Germans in Upper Silesian "extermination camps" at Auschwitz and Birkenau in two years ended April 15, 1944.

The report was attributed to information reaching the International Church Movement Ecumenical Refugee Commission of Geneva and the Fluchtlingshilfe of Zurich.

Victims were said to have come from these countries: Poland, 900,000; The Netherlands, 100,000; Greece, 45,000; France, 150,000; Belgium, 50,000; Germany, 60,000; Yugoslavia, Italy and Norway, 50,000; Bohemia, Moravia and Austria, 30,000; Slovakia, 30,000, and foreign Jews from Polish concentration camps, 300,000.

Yet another 120,000 Jews from Hungary were said to have been killed or died en route to Upper Silesia. The commission report said the Hungarian Jews were subjected to "malicious, fiendish, inhuman brutality."

Execution halls at Auschwitz and Birkenau were said to be fake bathing establishments capable of dispatching 2000 to 3000 Jews daily.

"Prisoners were led into cells and ordered to strip for bathing," the Times dispatch said, "then cyanide gas was said to have been released, causing death in three to five minutes. The bodies are burned in crematories that hold eight to 10 at a time. At Birkenau there are about 50 such furnaces. They were opened March 12, 1943, by Nazi chiefs who witnessed the 'disposal of 8000 Jews from 9 a. m. until 7:30 p. m.,' according to the report."

Reds Say Nazis Executed 92,000 Jews at Minsk.

MOSCOW, July 3 (AP).—The Russian news agency Tass in a dispatch from Gomel last night said German occupation troops in Minsk had executed scores of thousands of civilians, including 92,000 Jews.

Tass reported Russian guerrillas themselves carried out a few executions, killing, among others, Wilhelm Kube, Nazi General Commissar of White Russia.

CITIZENS URGED TO MARK HOLIDAY BY BUYING BONDS

Sales of Series E Total Only One-Third of $32,154,150 Quota for District.

A suggestion that St. Louisans celebrate the Fourth of July tomorrow by buying extra war bonds of the E series was made today by I. A. Long, War Finance Committee chairman, who pointed out that although St. Louis and St. Louis County had oversubscribed the general quota in the Fifth War Loan Drive, sales of E bonds still lagged.

Over-all sales of bonds to individuals and corporations today amounted to $194,960,500, which is 107.7 per cent of the $180,863,050 quota assigned the city and county by the United States Treasury Department. In contrast to this figure, Long said, latest reports of E bond sales Saturday night totaled $12,130,741, only slightly more than one-third of the $32,154,150 quota.

Although the holiday this week was expected to place thousands of St. Louisans out of reach of the 17,000 volunteer solicitors in the drive, officers were hopeful that month-end reports from businesses and industries would increase the E bond sales total to the extent that the quota could easily be met by the close of the campaign at midnight Saturday.

Encouraging reports of E bond sales have been received from employe groups at Emerson Electric Manufacturing Co., where the total was $500,670; St. Louis Ordnance Plant, $450,000; Curtiss-Wright Corporation, $235,084, and the Amertorp Corporation, $121,000. Drive officers said all these totals showed substantial increases over those for the same plants in the Fourth War Loan Drive.

St. Louis Council of B'nai B'rith, under the direction of the Women's Division of the Fifth War Loan Drive, was first among several organizations in this division today with sales totaling $3,461,194, including approximately $600,000 in E bonds. The council will sponsor a show, "Festival of Freedom," Saturday night at Kiel Auditorium with Groucho Marx, stage and motion picture comedian, and other performers. Admission to the show will be by the purchase of war bonds.

Sales records of other Women's Division units are American Women's Voluntary Services, $1,133,062; Ladies' Auxiliary of the Elks, $181,823; Missouri Pacific Women's Club, $43,656; Order of Eastern Star, $40,206; Phi Eta Sorority, $50,000; Post and Camp Girls, $256,976; Ship and Shore Navy Mothers, $4406; St. Louis Women Florists, $114,215; St. Louis Public Library, $18,037; Women's Chamber of Commerce, $1716; Women's Life Underwriters, $3912, and Women's Traffic Club, $27,181.

In addition to these sales records, drive officers said several foreign language groups had taken an active part in the campaign. Among them are the Greek Community, $86,400; American Czech National Alliance, $27,431; German-Austrian Benevolent Society, $5150; Albanian group, $9781; Chinese Gospel Mission group, $3643; Polish Community, $6056; Polish National Church, $2000; Spanish Society, $1712; St. Louis Slovak Lutheran Church, $3721, and Swiss group, $281.

With their $98,955 quota already oversubscribed by more than $1000, employes of the St. Louis Army Ordnance Depot, 7140 North Broadway, will hold a war bond rally Friday afternoon to double their goal. Army and Navy personnel who have been decorated in combat will address the rally, officers of the Depot said, and a musical program will be presented. Mayor Aloys P. Kauffmann and Msgr. John B. Cody, chancellor of the Archdiocese of St. Louis, have been invited as guests.

'SECRET TRADE AGREEMENTS' WITH GREAT BRITAIN CHARGED

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP).—The National Association of Manufacturers declared in its weekly publication today that the United States and Great Britain have entered into "secret trade agreements" that are causing "concern" to American manufacturers.

The N. A. M. News said one such pact cuts American leather industrial belt manufacturers out of a prewar export business of $250,000 to $300,000 annually to India.

"The Production and Resources Board has created export zones for Britain, Canada and other British possessions and the United States for several industries," said an N. A. M. statement. "What zones and what industries are affected are said to be one of Washington's most cherished secrets."

BAR ON OVERCHARGES BY CABS TO BE STUDIED

Board of Public Service Will Consider Problem Wednesday.

Steps to halt the practice by which St. Louis taxicab drivers flagrantly overcharge passengers on share-the-ride trips will be studied Wednesday by the Board of Public Service, Board President Milton M. Kinsey announced today.

In announcing his intention to lay the matter before the board, Kinsey said he thought the most likely solution lay in requiring taxicab companies to post some kind of notice informing riders the fare on a shared trip should be prorated.

A city ordinance requires operators to display rates of fare in letters at least three inches high on the doors of cabs, but at present only the legend, "25 cents for first 1¼ miles, 10 cents for each additional ½ mile," is displayed, there being no reference to fare on trips in which passengers double up.

When Mound City Cab Co., operator of Yellow taxicabs, last winter posted signs in its cabs informing passengers that fares should be divided, 300 drivers went on strike, forcing the company to withdraw the signs.

Kinsey Reports Overcharge.

A Post-Dispatch survey last week disclosed flagrant overcharges on shared rides by both Black & White and Yellow taxicab drivers, and Kinsey reported he himself had filed a personal complaint against an overcharge last June 15.

Kinsey said he sent Alderman George N. Daugherty, attorney for the Mound City Cab Co., an account of an experience he had last June 11, when he got into a Yellow taxicab at Union Station with two other passengers. The first passenger got out in the 3900 block of McDonald avenue, where the driver collected $1, although the meter read $1.05, Kinsey said. The second passenger got out in the 4000 block of Gravois avenue, and was charged $1, Kinsey continued, adding that he did not know what the meter read at this point.

When he arrived at his own home, 6142 Arendes drive, Kinsey said, the meter read $1.75, and the driver collected $1.55, overruling Kinseys protests that amounts paid by the two previous riders were deductible from the final fare.

Business Bureau Presses Case.

Numerous complaints of overcharges, both from passengers who shared rides and those who had a taxicab to themselves, have been prssed by the Better Business Bureau, Manager W. C. Rosenbaum reported, condemning overcharges as "a means of breaking down public confidence in St. Louis as a safe place in which to trade."

Mayor Denby Boring of Carlinville, Ill., was charged $3.50 for a taxicab trip from the Illinois Terminal station to a State street undertaking establishment in East St. Louis, and when he protested that this fare was excessive, was told, "We always charge $3 for crossing the bridge," Rosenbaum reported.

Kinsey said that persons who have been overcharged should report direct to the companies; that the board was "not a collection agency," and would handle no complaints. Earlier, Sim B. Comfort, board secretary, had said he would undertake to obtain refunds.

Arrested for Purse Snatching.

East St. Louis policemen, cruising in the vicinity of a purse snatching early yesterday, were attracted by screams of the woman victim and her female companion, and arrested a Negro, Edward Boyden, 1025 North Second street, who admitted the snatching and two other thefts. The purse had been snatched from Mrs. Christina Ditto, 702A State street.

MISSOURI FLYER IN NAZI PRISON CAMP SEEKS CITY JOB

Lt. Thomas F. Nash Applies for Traffic Control Post at Kansas City Airport.

KANSAS CITY, July 3 (AP).—Lt. Thomas F. Nash, a prisoner of war in Germany, has applied to City Manager L. P. Cookingham for a municipal job.

"I would like to submit my application for a traffic control position at the new municipal airport," read a card received by Cookingham from the 21-year-old Kansas City Flying Fortress Navigator whose plane was shot down last Dec. 12 in a raid on Emden.

The card explained that Nash is in the Eighth Air Force "and completed half my tour of missions before being grounded by the Germans. It closed with this optimistic line, "I'll expect an interview soon."

Cookingham expressed surprise that the Nazi censor permitted the flyer to refer to an "interview soon," but said he would write at once, acknowledging the application.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION GIVES WOMEN 2 TOP SPEAKING SPOTS

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP).—Democratic National Committee officials announced today that women have been given two top speaking spots on the program of the national convention, opening July 19 in Chicago—the first time women have been so prominently recognized.

Listed to address sessions are Helen Gahagan Douglas, actress and wife of Movie Star Melvyn Douglas, and Mrs. Gladys Tillett, head of the women's division of the national committee. Mrs. Douglas was nominated for Congress in the California primary.

Committee officials said that women had made seconding speeches at Democratic conventions in the past but never were listed for major addresses—with the exception of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who turned up and made an extemporaneous speech at the 1940 meeting. At the Republican convention last week, Representative Clare Booth Luce of Connecticut made one of the principal addresses.

TWO WHOSE HUSBANDS HAD OTHER WIVES GET ANNULMENTS

Two St. Louis women, who discovered after they were married that their husbands had other wives, obtained annulments of their marriages today in Circuit Judge William B. Flynn's Court.

Mrs. Alice Mae Brockel Reichart of 5148 Cabanne avenue testified that she and Herman Fredrick Reichart, a painter of 5089 Raymond avenue, were married last Jan. 4 and separated the next day when he was arrested for nonsupport of his first wife, Mrs. Lorene Reichart of Coulterville, Ill. Reichart, who testified in his second wife's behalf, said he married her after being informed by a friend that his first wife had obtained a divorce.

Mrs. Amelia Weston of 1847 North Broadway obtained an annulment of her marriage to a soldier, Larry E. Weston, formerly of Scott Field. She testified she learned he had another wife and had been court martialed when she inquired for him at Scott Field six days after they were married April 30, 1943.

TWO CHILDREN BURNED IN STOVE EXPLOSION

Rescued From Home by Firemen — Mother on Errand When Blaze Starts.

William H. Brown, 5 months old, and his sister, Louise Catherine Brown, 2 years old, children of Mr. and Mrs. James Brown, were burned seriously today in a fire that started when a coil-oil stove exploded in the kitchen of their three-room flat at 1620 Dolman street.

Firemen, summoned by a passerby, who saw smoke coming from the first floor of the two-and-one-half-story brick bunlding, were informed by neighbors that the children were in the house taking their afternoon naps. William, who suffered burns on his abdomen, was found unconscious in his crib, and Louise Catherine, who was burned on her legs and arms, was unconscious on the floor beside a larger bed, firemen said. They were taken to City Hospital.

Mrs. Catherine Brown, mother of the children, told police she lighted the stove to heat some water before leaving the house to go to a store with another child, Jessie, 3. When she returned from the store, about a block from the house, she said, firemen had arrived. Her husband was called to the hospital from his work at the Etna Roofing Co., 4185 Manchester avenue.

The fire was extinguished in about half an hour, firemen said, and most of the damage was confined to the kitchen which apparently was sprayed with flaming oil from the stove. Damage to the building was estimated at $500 and to the contents at $500.

FOUR DOGS GUARDING BODY OF WOMAN HOLD OFF POLICE

Mrs. Alice Downs, about 60 years old, was found dead yesterday, apparently of natural causes, on the floor of her apartment at 1438B North Eleventh street, after police were notified by neighbors that she had not been seen since Saturday.

Police were prevented from entering the room by four of Mrs. Downs' dogs, and called Sgt. Harold Present of the Humane Society of Missouri to drive them to a rear porch. Letters indicated Mrs. Downs left a son, Charles Downs, who is serving in the Navy, and a daughter, Mrs. Sylvia Asfell, of Chicago.

MRS. F. R. MEYER DIES IN CRASH

Mrs. Laura Meyer, 60 years old, wife of Frank R. Meyer, vice-president of the Inland Steel Co. and former St. Louisan, was killed when the automobile driven by her husband, in which she was riding, crashed into a telegraph pole beside a highway near Lake Geneva, Wis., where they were vacationing, Saturday. Her husband is in serious condition in a hospital in Elkhorn, Wis.

Meyer was formerly sales manager of the St. Louis branch of the Inland Steel Co. His home is in Forest Park, Ill.

D.F.C. TO CAPT. EMMER FOR BLUFFING A NAZI

Guns Empty but Flyer Drove Enemy Away From Injured Pilot's Plane.

Capt. Wallace N. Emmer, Mustang fighter pilot from St. Louis, was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross in Normandy yesterday for his exploit of several months ago when he bluffed a German plane away from an injured American fighter although his ammunition was exhausted.

The flyer rescued by the St. Louisan was Lt. Warren S. Emerson, Neligh, Neb., who was knocked unconscious by a shell fragment while returning from a raid on Kiel. A German fighter closed in for the kill, but then Capt. Emmer showed up and bluffed the enemy away with empty guns. The injured flyer recovered consciousness; pulled out of a dive and flew 400 miles home.

COURT OF APPEALS DISBARS JAMES WREN

Lawyer Admits Defrauding Clients, Making False Use of Affidavits.

Attorney James L. Wren was disbarred from the practice of law by a decree handed down today by the St. Louis Court of Appeals, with the signatures of its three judges. The court stated that Wren had admitted the truth of the charges against him; these included defrauding clients, accepting employment to use influence before official boards, and use of false affidavits in connection with the filing of bonds.

Wren recently asked the Probate Court to declare him of unsound mind, and his counsel in the disbarment proceeding asked that he be suspended from practice rather than disbarred, in view of his mental condition. The court stated that Wren's unfitness for the practice of law had been so clearly shown that suspension would be an inadequate remedy.

CIO POLITICAL ACTION GROUP FOR M'KITTRICK

Missouri Committee Also Backs Roosevelt, Wallace and Cochran.

Indorsement of President Roosevelt and Vice-President Wallace for re-election, of the candidacy of Attorney General Roy McKittrick for the United States Senate and of Congressman John J. Cochran of the Thirteenth District was voted unanimously by the Missouri Political Action Committee of the CIO at a meeting yesterday.

The statement issued by the committee makes no mention of Senator Bennett C. Clark. It says none of the four leading Republican senatorial candidates fills the bill. "These men," it says of the Republicans, "would lead us down the path of international chaos, economic insecurity and another war. They represent deep reactionary trends."

McKittrick, the committee holds, "stands foursquare behind the leadership of President Roosevelt, and his candidacy recommends itself to all victory-minded Missourians." It says that in his present office, McKittrick "has shown himself a servant of the people's interest and has refused to bow to selfish groups."

In indorsing Cochran for re-election to Congress, the committee condemns the eight Republican Congressmen from Missouri by name, saying their records "mark them as eminently unfit to deal with the problems of war, peace and the people's welfare. The record of Representative Slaughter (Roger Slaughter, Democrat, of the Fifth District, Kansas City) is of a piece with these. These men must be retired to private life."

The committee's indorsement of President Roosevelt and Vice-President Wallace follows the action of the National Political Action Committee of the CIO. It states as to the Republican party that "the candidate they have named, the men who stand behind him, and the platform they have drawn up, make it even clearer that the re-election of President Roosevelt is a must for the welfare of the nation."

ARRESTED 3 TIMES IN 2 DAYS

Jack Stout, Negro laborer of 110 North Fourteenth street, East St. Louis, was arrested yesterday afternoon for the third time within 48 hours, East St. Louis police reported. Originally arrested a month ago for disorderly conduct, he made bond but failed to appear for trial. He was brought in Friday, but escaped when allowed to go in the corridor of the jail for a drink of water. Re-arrested Saturday night, he ran from the jail as a turnkey was taking him to a telephone.

2 KILLED, 3 HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENTS ON THE EAST SIDE

Venice Man Fatally Injured in Collision—Wood River Resident Hit by Car Dies.

Two men were killed and three other persons were injured yesterday in two automobile accidents on the East Side.

Willis McDougal, 64 years old, a night watchman at the Granite City Engineers Depot, died at St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Granite City last night of a fractured skull, suffered when the automobile in which he was riding collided with another machine.

His wife, Mrs. Mary McDougal, suffered a fractured leg and a back injury, and his daughter, Mrs. Cora Hettich of 1716 North Park drive, East St. Louis, who was driving, suffered a back injury. The McDougal home is at 1123 Calhoun street, Venice.

Driver of the other machine, William Joiner, 2152 Benton street, was given first aid treatment and ordered held pending a Coroner's inquest.

The other fatality was Henry F. Bartels, 437 E. Ferguson avenue, Wood River, 63, watchman for the Shell Oil Co.'s Wood River refinery, who was struck by an automobile as he walked across Brodway at Ridge avenue in Alton.

Donald McGarvey, 1903 Washington avenue, Alton, told police that Bartels walked in front of his automobile, and he was unable to stop in time to avoid striking him. Bartels is survived by his wife, Mrs. Minnie Bartels; a daughter, Miss Dolores Bartels, and a son, Pfc. Kenneth Bartels, stationed in Alaska.

St. Louis Woman Killed by Auto at Chester, Ill.

Mrs. Frances E. Smith of 5025 Tholozan avenue, wife of Harry D. Smith of the Post-Dispatch advertising staff, will be buried tomorrow in Chester, Ill., where she was killed Saturday afternoon when struck by an automobile in front of the home of her sister, Mrs. Perry Hathaway, 1701 State street, Chester.

Mrs. Smith and her husband had driven to Chester to visit Mrs. Hathaway, and Mrs. Smith had just alighted from the machine and started across the street when she apparently became confused by an approaching machine driven by Hubert Lehr of Tilden, Ill. Witnesses said she stepped in front of Lehr's automobile. Mrs. Smith died 30 minutes later in her sister's home. Besides her husband and Mrs. Hathaway, Mrs. Smith is survived by three other sisters, Mrs. Hazel Jones, Mrs. Irvin Douglas and Mrs. Daisy Schuette, all of Chester.

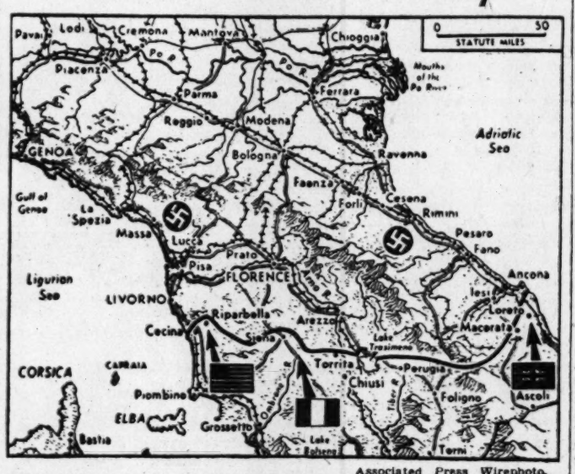
Allied Gains in Italy



Associated Press Wirephoto.

The Allied battle line continues to move forward in Italy. Advances have been made on the west coast where the Americans have taken Cecina; at Siena, which was taken by the French; west of Lake Trasimeno, where the British have advanced several miles, and on the east coast, where the British have moved forward to within nine miles of Ancona.

the city and that the Germans were withdrawing.

The heart of Siena is the famous Campo, a semi-circular "square" paved with bricks, in which the Palio is celebrated each year on July 2 and repeated in August.

Siena, one of the best examples of a medieval city among the famous hill towns of Tuscany, is spread over three hills and the valleys between. Its narrow streets, bordered by ancient brick and stone buildings, weave canyon-like through the valleys and curve up slopes to heights of several hundred feet. The cit, has a normal population of about 50,000.

Enemy Losses Mounting.

Meanwhile the Allied command reported that prisoners taken in Italy during May and June represented elements of at least 24 German divisions as well as a number of miscellaneous units. A considerable number of these Nazi divisions virtually were wiped out in the Allied offensive and enemy casualties are continuing to mount steadily.

The Allied command announced the capture of an order dated June 21 and signed by Gen. Lemensen, as commander of the German Fourteenth Army. An official spokesman said "It appears that Col. Gen. von Mackensen has been removed from the command of the Fourteenth Army, which is not unreasonable, in view of the heavy defeat inflicted on him in which his army was practically destroyed."

east coast were five miles from the island's northern tip.

Saturday's attack, made under the cover of an aerial, naval and artillery bombardment, was preceded by a pre-dawn Japanese aerial thrust at transports and screening vessels, which was repulsed with no damage. Two enemy planes were shot down during this tenth Japanese aerial counterattack in the Saipan campaign.

U. S. Units Identified.

With the disclosure yesterday of the units involved, it may now be revealed that the Second and Fourth Marine Divisions landed abreast in the initial attack against the island and these battalions suffered the major share of casualties.

The Second wheeled up the west coast and through the highest mountains, while the Fourth struck directly across the island and secured the heights surrounding Magicienne Bay after savage fighting.

The Twenty-seventh Army Division landed a few days later and, circling the southern tip of the island, captured Aslito airfield without heavy losses, but was involved in a hot, bloody fight for Nafutan Peninsula.

Adm. Nimitz reported the burial of 6015 Japanese dead on Saipan, the capture of more than 200 prisoners, destruction or capture of 80 tanks, from June 14 through June 29.

Nimitz said Marines and soldiers seized "large quantities of enemy equipment, including food and ammunition."

The front now extends from Garapan due east to the island's center, then north nearly a mile, then east and northeast to the coast.

In the recent air fighting around the Marianas, one carrier-based fighter squadron, headed by Comdr. William Dean of Coronado, Cal., shot down 177 Japanese planes in two weeks, to set a new Pacific record of 187 planes for the squadron. Sixty-seven of these were bagged in one day, another record. Lt (jg) E. C. Hargreaves of Brimfield, Ill., claimed five planes and a probable in one day, although he had never seen an enemy plane before Jun 24.

only so that anything he may have to say in the heat of the campaign may have a fresh sound, but to keep out of the record statements which might boomerang in the light of war developments.

Already in this campaign, Republicans have been quoting some of the bitterly critical things President Roosevelt said about Russia when it signed the non-aggression pact with Germany and contrasting those with later friendly statements about the Russians after they were attacked by the Nazis.

Thus Dewey may be expected to let others make most of the news about him until after Labor day.

Precinct-Up Organization.

In the meantime, however, his strategists hope to perfect an organization reaching down into the precincts. J. Russel Sprague, New York national committeeman, is a great believer in organization work and Herbert Brownell Jr., the new Republican national chairman, sides with him.

The Dewey forces spent three months before Brownell's election at Chicago last Friday acquainting him personally with party leaders in all of the states.

With this foundation, Brownell hopes to make up for some of the time he necessarily lost, before Dewey's nomination, to Robert E. Hannegan, Democratic national chairman. Hannegan, named several months ago, also is a believer in organizing from the precincts up and has toured the country preaching that gospel.

CANTON RAIL LINE SEVERED BY JAPS BELOW HENGYANG

Troops That By-Passed Capital Thrust at Leiyang, Cut Road in Flank Drive.

CHUNGKING, July 3 (AP).—Japanese troops, which by-passed the encircled rail junction of Hengyang, have thrust a spearhead 46 miles below the city in their drive to capture the entire Canton-Hankow railway route, the Chinese high command indicated tonight.

This was accomplished by a sudden thrust at Leiyang, 34 miles south of Hengyang, where a flanking movement cut the railway, and a subsequent smash more than 10 miles below the city.

The fall of Leiyang itself was indicated earlier in a communique of Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters, which announced an air attack on the city by Warhawks which strafed troops.

The thrust southward placed the Japanese only slightly more than 100 miles from Kukong, provisional capital of Kwangtung province on the southeast coast.

Other Japanese forces are attacking northward from Canton in Kwangtung in an effort to join the southward moving forces in Hunan.

Official Chinese reports last night said Hengyang, strategic Hunan province railway center, remained in Chinese hands, although it had been pounded both by American and Japanese planes.

In Burma, Japanese troops making a "suicidal attempt" to penetrate the Allied-held main airport at Myitkyina in northern Burma, have been surrounded and wiped out by American forces, the Chinese announced.

Southeast Asia command headquarters at Kandy, Ceylon, announced that an Allied raiding party driving ahead of the main force in the offensive to clear the Japanese from India, penetrated the enemy stronghold of Ukhrul, 24 miles northeast of Imphal, four nights ago.

3 MORE NAZI GENERALS KILLED ON EAST FRONT

19 Lost Since May 11—Enemy Casualties in Period Put at 394,000.

LONDON, July 3 (AP).—Three more German Generals have met death in the battle for White Russia, the Nazi communique said today, raising to 19 the number of general officers killed or captured in less than a month.

By official Allied estimates, German casualties since the inception of the three-front offensive beginning with Italy on May 11 have reached around 394,000 to date. The Russians have announced the death or capture of 219,000. German casualties in Normandy have been estimated at 75,000 and those in Italy were set at 80,000 to 100,000 about 10 days ago.

The German communique told of the deaths of Artillery Generals Pfeiffer and Martinek and of Lt. Gen. Schenemann. Thus from June 6, 11 enemy generals have been killed and eight captured.

Others killed were:

Col. Gen. Friedrich Dollmann, commander of the German Seventh Army in France; Col. Gen. Eduard Dietl, commander of seven divisions in Northern Finland, killed in an airplane accident; Gen. Erich Marks, killed in Cherbourg; Lt. Gen. Hellmich, Lt. Gen. Richter, Maj. Gen. Steegmann, Maj. Gen. Fallay and Maj. Gen. Witt, all killed in Normandy.

Prisoners taken included:

Gen. Gollwitzer, commander of the Fifty-third Army Corps, Russia; Lt. Gen. Carl Wilhelm von Schlieben, Cherbourg garrison commander; Maj. Gen. Satler and R. Adm. Walter Hennecke, Cherbourg; Maj. Gen. Erdmannsdorff, Maj. Gen. Baeumler, Maj. Gen. Heine and Maj. Gen. Hamman in Russia. (The Russians spelled the last name Gaman because there is no H in the Russian alphabet.)

WALLACE BOUND FOR U.S. PRAISES SPIRIT OF CHINA

Says Reverses Haven't Diminished Will to Resist—Cites Yanks' Confidence.

LANCHOW, China, July 3 (AP).—Vice-President Henry A. Wallace left for home yesterday after a visit here to the shrine supposed to contain the remains of Genghis Khan. In a farewell statement the Vice-President said he had learned during his 12-day visit to this country that "in spite of economic difficulties and current military reverses the spirit of resistance to Japan continues strong in the Chinese."

"I've found our United States Army officers and men full of fight in the best American tradition," he added. "At the headquarters and forward base of the Fourteenth Air Force headquarters of the Twentieth Bomber Command I found our aviators confident of their ability to give the Japanese plenty to worry about."

Eric Johnston Sees Much to Admire in Siberia.

MOSCOW, July 3 (AP).—"Siberia reminds me of my own country; it has a brilliant future," Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, declared in an interview with Tass, Soviet news agency, as he was returning to the United States.

"Its cultural and economic developments will depend on the determination of the nation, its outlook and the courage of the masses. What I've seen in Siberia convinced me that the Soviet people possess all those faculties."

Johnston predicted increasing economic relations between Russia and the United States. He stopped at Omsk after visiting Magnitogorsk and Sverdlovsk.

RUSS TAKE MINSK; 150-MILE ADVANCE MADE IN 11 DAYS

reesrved only for outstanding victories—to boom out in celebration of the new triumph.

Railways Cut by Reds.

Capture of Minsk was preceded by outflanking drives which cut the only two rail routes leading out of the city to the southwest and northwest. The Russians covered 12½ miles in their last dash into the city, last night's Soviet communique having reported them that distance away at Slobodo, to the northeast.

Dispatches before the capture of Minsk indicated that a large German force — some estimates ran as high as 240,000—were imperiled by cutting of the railways with secondary dirt roads to the west left as the only escape routes left for the enemy in the area. It appeared the Russians were in position again to take a heavy toll of the Germans as they did at Vitebsk and Bobruisk.

Some Soviet dispatches termed the Nazi retreat in White Russia a rout. In almost every sector, the Russians said, German commanders appeared unable to stop the on-rushing Soviet tanks, cavalry and infantry advancing under strong air cover.

In the operations severing the railways one Red column in old Poland took Krasnoe, 30 miles northwest of Minsk, cutting the line from Minsk northwest to Wilno. Another severed the railway running to Brest-Litovsk at Stolpce, Poland, 45 miles southwest of Minsk, and captured Nieswiez, 125 miles northeast of the junction of Baranowicze.

One Soviet column of the forces north of the city smashed to within about 60 miles of Wilno, which is only 15 miles from Lithuania and 100 miles from East Prussia. This drive captured Wilejka, 46 miles northwest of Minsk.

Russian troops had penetrated 35 miles into old Poland, and were about the same distance from Latvia.

The Soviet command reported more than 7000 Germans were killed in yesterday's fighting and nearly 1000 towns and villages captured in the overall drive.

The Russians also told of continued advances against the Finns on the Karelian front between Lakes Onezhskoe (Onega) and Ladoga, with the capture of Spasskaya-Guba, 35 miles northwest of Petrazovorsk, which fell last week.

U. S. NATIONAL CEMETERY CREATED ON SAIPAN BEACH WITH BURIAL OF MARINES

By a Marine Corps Correspondent.

SAIPAN, MARIANAS ISLANDS (Delayed).

SCORES of Marines were buried on the sandy beaches of Saipan today, and thus was established a national cemetery in the heart of Japan's island empire.

Tonight, memorial services were held for them, with Catholic, Protestant, and Jewish chaplains participating.

Graves for our men were dug as they were brought in by crews of their own buddies. The spot chosen for our first national cemetery on Saipan was under heavy artillery fire only yesterday. I spent three hours there, pinned down by enemy guns and the explosion of our own ammunition trucks. Today, it is clear. Nearby is a gutted Japanese field dump, exploded in the first naval bombardment.

BRADLEY SEES MORE VICTORIES LIKE CHERBOURG

deputy commander in the field, and Bradley's job is parallel to that of Lt. Gen. Miles C. Dempsey, commander of the British Second Army.

It has been known since early in the invasion that Bradley was in the field, but his exact command and the identification of the First Army niFrance had not been announced before. Germna reports two weeks ago, however, had correctly identified the army.

Thus two American armies now are in action in Europe—the First Army in France, and the Fifth in Italy, under Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark.

Bradley, who helped train two of the divisions which spearheaded the invasion, came to the European theater last fall from command of the Second Army Corps, which carried the top load in the American Seventh Army during the Sicilian operation and before that had captured Bizerte, in Tunisia.

When Bradley left his post as commandant of the infantry school at Fort Benning, Ga., in 1942, he took charge of the Eighty-second Infantry Division, lated reorganized into the Eighty-second and 101st Airborne Divisions which led the American assault in Normandy. Bradley left the Eighty-second at Camp Claiborne to take command of the Twenty-eighth Infantry Division at Camp Livingstone, La. From there he went to Tunisia.

Bradley, a native Missourian with a flair for mathematics and marksmanship, is known as "the doughboys' general."

The First Army under his command includes the Fifth Corps, under Maj. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow in the St. Lo sector, and the Seventh Corps under Maj. Gen. Joseph L. Collins, victor at Cherbourg.

The Fourth, Ninth and Seventy-ninth Infantry Divisions have been identified in the Seventh Corps and the First, Second and Twenty-ninth Divisions have been identified in the Fifth Corps.

The Eighty-second Airborne Division and the 101st Airborne are the only other announced components of the Army.

Fractionating towers for producing Toluene at a Sinclair Refinery

TOLUENE puts the knock-out punch in TNT, and it is TNT that gives bombs, "block busters", sea and land mines their destructive power.

Sinclair makes great quantities of Toluene from petroleum in these newly completed fractionating towers at its refinery at Marcus Hook, Penna.

To supply our boys who are doing the fighting, Sinclair makes not only Toluene, but also components for synthetic rubber, 100 octane aviation gasoline and a long list of fuels and specialized lubricants. Altogether, 10 modern Sinclair refineries are turning out products for war-front and home-front use.

Cardinals Out in Front by 9 1-2 Games After Beating Dodgers Twice

Munger and Brecheen To Pitch in Twin Bill With Giants Tomorrow

By Herman Wecke

This is a day of rest for Billy Southworth and his league-leading Cardinals. They'll resume their mad dash to their third consecutive pennant in a doubleheader with the Giants of Mel Ott at Sportsman's Park tomorrow afternoon.

Grabbing both ends of a twin bill with the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday, 2 to 1 in 14 innings and 4-2 in the regulation nine, the Birds increased their lead to 9½ contests, since the Pirates lost to the Braves and tied in the second battle. The two victories ran the Cards' new winning streak to four.

Ability to come from behind enabled the Birds to win the opener—their first extra-inning triumph of the campaign. Following 13 scoreless innings of a hill duel between Max Lanier and Rube Melton, the Dodgers broke the ice with a run in their half of the fourteenth.

The way Melton had been pitching, that run appeared enough to win, since only one member of the Cards had reached second base after the third inning.

And Then the Fun Began.

But you never can tell about the Redbirds. Ken O'Dea waited around for a pass, to open the home half of the fourteenth. Pepper Martin ran for him, but was forced on Kurowski's grounder. Litwhiler then singled, Kurowski stopping at second. Marty Marion, who had previously made two hits, came through with a smash to center and Kurowski came over with the tying tally. Here Webber relieved Melton and Garms, batting for Verban, was purposely passed to fill the bases. Augie Bergamo batted for Lanier and lined to Miksis. This brought up Johnny Hopp. He hit one of Webber's offerings far over Olmo's head in center and Litwhiler came home with the winning run.

The Dodgers' only run off Lanier, who yielded seven hits, came on Walker's triple and an outfield fly. Lanier tired a bit in the late innings. For the first 10 innings the Dodgers got only two men as far as second base. They had an opening in the eleventh, with runners on first and second, but Galan rolled to Verban. Then in the twelfth they filled the bases, but in this clutch Melton struck out.

It was Lanier's eighth victory of the season against five defeats. The twelfth, incidentally, was the only inning in which the Dodgers managed as many as two hits in the same round against the Redbird lefthander.

And against Melton, the Cardinals had more than one hit in only the final frame.

Victory Goes to Wilks.

Ted Wilks, credited with the victory in the second game, did not have to toil as hard. He yielded only six hits, four coming in the last two rounds. He yielded singles to Rosen and Walker in the first and after that he set Durocher's men down without a safety until the eighth, when doubles by Schultz and Stanky and Pinch-Hitter Bollings' single produced two tallies.

However, at that time, Wilks was working behind a four-run lead. Singles by Kurowski, Marion, Verban and Hopp with a sacrifice by Wilks thrown in netted three runs in the second off Calvin Coolidge Buster Junior Caeser Tuscahoma McLish, while in the fifth, a pass to Sanders, a fielder's choice and singles by Walker Cooper and Kurowski netted another off "Chief Many Names" as some of the Brooklyn writers have nicknamed McLish.

And all those who remained for the finish were glad to go home when Sanders squeezed Schultz's pop fly to end the long afternoon at 7:12 p. m.

Cardinal Notes.

Although the Dodgers are in fifth place, 14½ games out of first place, they are still a pretty good drawing card in St. Louis. With an attendance of 17,813, including 16,103 cash customers yesterday, Leo Durocher's men drew 31,047 paid admissions for their two-day stay here.

George Munger, the righthander who has won 10 games and lost only two, and Southpaw Harry Brecheen will pitch for the Redbirds in the July 4 twin bill with the Giants. Feldman and Fischer or Hansen, recently brought up from the International League, will toil for Mel Ott.

Augie Galan, George Kurowski and Emil Verban turned the feature fielding plays in the double attraction yesterday.

The Cardinals now have won seven of eight from the Dodgers on the season's play. The double defeat, incidentally, ran the Dodger losing streak to six in a row.

Bad series for Stan Musial. He made only one hit in 10 trips to the plate, while Dixie Walker, who is again leading the league in hitting, had five out of 12.

When Walker singled in the first inning of the second game it gave him a total of 100 hits for the campaign, the first major leaguer to reach the figure.

Four teen-age lads were in the Dodgers' battle front. They were Ed Miksis, shortstop, brought up from Trenton; Cal McLish, Ralph Branca, from New York U. and Clyde King, North Carolina U.

Wings Rout Sparks.

Lambert Field's Navy Wings gained their fourth consecutive victory in the Military Baseball League, routing the Navy Sparks, 21-1. Pitcher Saiy of the winners yielded only two hits, while his mates made 20. In another game, the Jefferson Barracks Jay Bees nosed out Scott Field, 8-7.

U. S. Soldiers in England Order Series Tickets

Sgt. C. A. Miller and Cpl. R. L. Myers, U. S. Soldiers "somewhere in England," feel very confident of two things. One is that one or both St. Louis teams will participate in the world series in October, and another is that Herr Hitler will be thoroughly whipped by that time. For, in their letter requesting tickets for the opening game of the series, they assure Joe Goldschmidt, manager of ticket sales for the Browns and Cardinals, they will definitely be in St. Louis for the game.

The soldiers failed to say whether they are St. Louisans. Their letter:

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, June 27, 1944.

Please reserve two grandstand seats for the first game of the world series, along the third base line as close as possible to home plate. Here's hoping the whole series will be played in St. Louis. We will be there.

McSpaden And Hogan In Playoff

CHICAGO, July 3 (AP).—Lieut. Ben Hogan, determined to make a successful comeback in tournament golf after a recess of almost two years, and Jug McSpaden, the leading money winner of the season, met today in an 18-hole playoff for the Chicago Victory national championship.

In one of the most amazing finishes in golf history, McSpaden yesterday overcame a five-stroke deficit on the last nine holes by shooting five birdies to tie Hogan at the end of the regular 72-hole tournament with 273—11 strokes under par.

Byron Nelson took third place with 276 and was followed at 280 by Johnny Revolta and Sam Byrd. Chuck Kocsis of Detroit had a six-stroke margin over his nearest rivals for amateur honors by posting a 282. Bob Cochran, St. Louis amateur, finished with 288.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Jinx Gave McCreary a Wicked Ride

SPEAKING of jockeys, Old Man Jinx had the leg up on Conn McCreary, Calumet Stable's contract ace who pilots Pensive, Twilight Tear, Sun Again and other great horses from the famous Warren Wright barn.

Jinx took Conn for a ride twice within a week and when he got through, McCreary first was suspended for the duration of the Arlington meeting and then suffered a broken arm in an auto crash. Between the two mishaps McCreary will do no riding for six weeks, thereby losing 10 per cent of the stakes he might have won on the Calumet horses and all outside earnings that would have accrued during the month of July.

His losses could easily reach $15,000 or more since the Calumet Stable's stake entries will be favorites in Chicago events totaling upwards of $150,000 in the next four weeks.

Why Does a Boxer Wear a Mustache?

CLEO SHANS, Los Angeles lightweight, is said to be the only boxer who wears a mustache. . . . The idea, it seems, is this: When Cleo is taking a beating the mustache helps him keep a stiff upper lip. . . . But when the boys kid him about it Cleo, it seems, fairly bristles.

"There probably will be no night world series games between the Cardinals and the Browns," a Detroit writer forecasts. . . . And no daylight games either, if 14 other clubs can do anything to prevent it.

The Detroit daylight attendance average has dwindled from 8000 to 3000, although no night games are played there. . . . Twilight baseball explains this seemingly screwy statement.

CONN McCREARY, St. Louis jockey and ace rider of the famous Calumet Farm horses, who last week was first suspended for the entire Arlington meeting and then broke his arm in an auto crash. The mishaps will probably deprive him of about $15,000 riding fees.

There is a noticeable lack of bunting in major league baseball today. . . . And it is particularly absent from the Browns' flag pole—championship bunting, that is.

Lou Nova Now Has 15 Straight Wins.

"ALL the heavyweight boxers around now are bums," remarked a sports writer, in conversation with Frank Pacassi, old-time trainer who now is in charge of Lou Nova, the newest comeback.

"Yes," agreed Pacassi, "and I got the best bum."

Nova's chance to escape the No. 1 Bum's rating would occur if Johnny Paycheck deceided to return to the ring.

Unless you've toured the bushes, you've probably not heard mentioned one name among the 15 listed as Nova victims.

They're talking of bringing Lou to St. Louis later in the season . . . Well, right here is where Lou became mildly famous, back in 1935, when he won the A. A. U. title . . . Next year he won the Olympic title at Berlin.

After that Nova turned professional and did right well until Two-ton Tony Galento knocked all the fight out of him for more than a year.

When he recovered he was bitten by the yoga bug, developed a cosmic punch and a dynamic balance, from which he was knocked by Joe Louis.

Against big, slow-moving opponents with reactions sluggish as his own, Nova can still hold his own, perhaps . . . But as to his comeback—well, you can't return to a place where you've never been. Lou probably is right in making hay while the duration "bums" are still available.

NO, OLD TIMER, you can't figure the mutuel breakage from the number of bettors who go broke.

THERE'S NO WAY to convince the average citizen that he hasn't a chance to follow the races and still finish ahead of them.

Two Handicaps On Tomorrow's Fairmount Card

By Dent McSkimming

FAIRMOUNT PARK, Ill., July 3.—Front runners took the opening races here this afternoon before a crowd of 12,000. Leading from start to finish, Harvey V. won the opening race by three and one-half lengths and Miss Lucifer matched that performance in taking the second. Coupled in the daily double, they paid $22.40 for $2.

Two races of handicap class—one at three-quarters of a mile, called the Independence Day, and the other at one mile and 70 yards, called the Stars and Stripes—will add color to Fairmount's closing day program tomorrow.

Fire Engine, which won the sprint handicap last Saturday, and Doubtful, victor in the longer handicap on the same card, will come right back on closing day but in each case Racing Secretary Dick Leigh has increased their weight assignments so that a repeat victory is far from a certainty.

Eva Webre, running in the distance handicap, and Fire Engine have scored four victories each at this meeting and will be trying to equal the five-straight mark of Silent Host. The latter is laid up now with an injured leg.

There are nine races on tomorrow's card.

Double Defeat by Red Sox Cuts Browns' Lead to Game and a Half

By W. J. McGoogan
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

BOSTON, July 3.—Second guessers who have enjoyed taking pot shots at Manager Luke Sewell of the Browns can have a great time for the next 24 hours, at least, milling over the doubleheader which the Browns dropped to the Red Sox yesterday, 1 to 0 and 4 to 3 in 11 innings, to see their American League lead sliced to one and one-half games.

The first contest left little to abuse the manager about for Jack Kramer lost the toughest imaginable pitching duel to Tex Hughson when Catcher Red Hayworth dropped the ball at the plate after taking a perfect strike from Mike Kreevich in center field, thus allowing the only tally of the game to score.

But the second one. Wow! There's one for you, so start choosing up sides now. Luke, of course, had to make his decisions on the spot without advice of counsel, while the grandstand managers had plenty of time to think it over.

Here was the situation.

The Borwns led, 3 to 1, in the ninth inning with Tex Shirley pitching three-hit ball up to that point. He retired Fox on a foul to Chrisman, then Bob Johnson hit a fly to left-center high enough up on the fence so that Kreevich couldn't reach it even after the highest leap he could make. It went for a double.

Muncrief Fails in Relief.

Sewell stopped the game, pulled out Shirley and put in Bob Muncrief, his best pitcher, who has just been selected for the American League all-star game.

Muncrief had been well warmed up for several innings and had pitched only four innings in a week.

Bobby Doerr was the first batter to face him and Bobby has been Muncrief's meat. Doerr obliged by rolling to McQuinn and Muncrief covered the bag for the putout, Johnson going to third.

Then up came Lou Finney, a left-handed hitter who has played only one full game in two years. He joined the Red Sox only two weeks ago and has not had time to get in condition. He was in the game only because Manager Joe Cronin had kicked himself out of the contest in the previous inning for protesting too vigorously on a called third strike. But this time Finney hit a little pop fly to left field which fell just inside the line for a double and Johnson scored. Then Hal Wagner slashed a single to right to score Finney with the tying run and send the game into extra innings.

Muncrief got by the tenth and Pete Fox, hitting in his 13th straight game, opened the 11th with a double and Johnson neatly sacrificed. That brought up Doerr again and all the wise guys thought Luke should order Bobby passed to set up a double play for Finney.

Finney Does It Again.

Instead, Muncrief pitched to Doerr and got him to hit a roller to Christman and Fox was caught in a run-up between third and home. He was finally tagged out by Stephens while Doerr reached second base. Again Finney was up and many thought he should have been passed. But he was pitched to and he hit a roller to Gutteridge which Don should have had in his hip pocked but he let it roll between his legs for a single and Doerr scored the winning run. Gutteridge said he should have been charged with a boot.

There's enough meat there for the second guessers to chew over for some time but Sewell believes he did the right thing every time and contends that in each instance his judgment was backed by sound baseball practice.

Anyway, it was a tough finish to a tough afternoon and actually there should have been no pressure at all because the Browns had plenty of chances to make it easy for themselves.

Brownie Attack Bogs.

George Woods started for the Red Sox, and three hits, two of the infield variety, and a walk gave the Browns two runs in the first inning. They added another in the second when Shirley singled, went to second on a sacrifice, to third on an infield hit and scored on McQuinn's fly to Fox. After that the attack bogged down to nothing.

Stephens, who had hit safely in 16 straight games only to see the streak stopped in the opener, had a chance in the seventh with the bases full and only one out, but the best he could do was pop to the shortstop. Then in the tenth, leading off, he slammed a single to left-center only to be erased in a double play.

Byrnes fanned three times in four official trips to the plate while Shirley led the club in hitting with three safeties which, no doubt, led to his later trouble because the fact that he had to run the bases so much influenced Luke in taking him out, although Shirley argued he was not tired.

Jimmy Bucher, who had two of the Red Sox five safeties in the opener, started Kramer's trouble in the sixth when he led off with a single and was sacrificed to second. Fox singled to center and Kreevich, who played a whale of a game all day in the field and at bat, rushed in, scooped the ball up like an infielder and threw like a bullet to the plate. Bucher should have been out by six feet, but Hayworth dropped the ball after tagging Jimmy and that meant the ball game.

Again Stephens blew two chances to drive in a run, fanning once with runners on first and second and grounding harmlessly to the shortstop in the ninth with the tying run on second. After that Gene Moore took a called third strike to end the game.

BROWNIE NOTES.

Don Barnes had the only solace of the day when 32,436 paid to see the games. It was the largest crowd of the Boston season and thousands were turned away.

The Browns departed for Philadelphia at noon, where they meet the Athletics in the Fourth of July doubleheader tomorrow. Jakucki and Hollingsworth likely will pitch for the Browns with Newsom and Black due for Connie Mack.

Thirteen Browns went down on strikes during the afternoon and six of them were called.

The victory was the nineteenth for the Red Sox in the last 22 games in their home park.

Hughson became the first pitcher in the league to win 12 games with his triumph. He has been beaten three times. Kramer now stands eight and eight, while Muncrief, who was charged with the loss of the second game, has seven victories and four losses.

Paige Allows Five Hits, Fans 15, but Loses 11-Inning Game

NEW YORK, July 3 (AP).—Leroy (Satchel) Paige treated a crowd of 14,000 persons to a masterful pitching exhibition, striking out 15 men and allowing only five hits as his Kansas City Monarch teammates tossed away a 3-2 decision to the New York Cubans in 11 innings today.

It was the noted Negro righthander's first appearance at Ebbets' Field in his 20 years of campaigning.

Paige had a one-hitter going into the ninth but two singles plus an error gave the Cubans the tying run. With the bases full in that inning and no one out, Paige retired the next three men without further scoring. However, with two men out a double followed by Horatio Martinez' single spelled his defeat.

The Philadelphia Stars defeated the Cubans, 8-6, in the opener of the two exhibition games.

COURT RULES OUT COUNTY'S SPECIAL FIRE DISTRICT ACT

State Supreme Tribunal Cites Restriction on Laws of Limited Application.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 3.—The 1941 act providing for the organization of fire protection districts in congested unincorporated areas of counties with 200,000 to 400,000 population was declared unconstitutional today by the Missouri Supreme Court.

The decision, written by Chief Justice James M. Douglas and concurred in by all other members of the court, invalidated the act on the ground that it violated the State Constitution provision which states that a special law shall not be enacted where a general law may be made applicable.

By limiting the act to counties in the 200,000 to 400,000 population class, the opinion stated, it was applicable only to St. Louis County, no other county in the state having population enough to benefit by it.

A considerable amount of campaigning on the part of St. Louis County proponents of the act was necessary to obtain its passage in 1941. It provided for the organization of fire protection districts in unincorporated areas and gave officials of the districts authority to levy taxes and issue bonds to pay for fire equipment and maintenance.

NAZIS 'BOOBY-TRAP' BODIES

ON THE BRITISH FRONT IN FRANCE, July 3 (AP).—For the first time on this front, British burial squads report that German corpses are being booby-trapped and left behind as devices of death.

During the task of burying the enemy dead, a British soldier noticed a tiny and almost invisible wire hooked to a Nazi corpse. From a safe distance he pulled the wire, and there was a terrific explosion.

COURT REVERSES STAND, VOIDS TAX ON LACLEDE POWER

Rules 5 Pct. Levy on Gross Receipts Illegal 4 Months After Upholding It.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 3.—Less than four months after it had rendered a diametrically opposite decision, the Missouri Supreme Court en banc today declared unconstitutional the St. Louis city ordinance levying a 5 per cent tax on gross receipts of the Laclede Power & Light Co.

The ordinance, enacted in May 1939, was intended to yield the city an estimated $150,000 a year revenue, and to place Laclede Power & Light on the same footing as its larger competitor, Union Electric Co. of Missouri, which pays the city a 5 per cent tax on its gross receipts.

An injunction proceeding, filed by the company to prevent collection of the tax, has been before the Courts since January, 1940. The city filed a suit to collect more than $76,000, due from May 1939 to January 1940. Circuit Judge David J. Murphy in September 1941, declared the ordinance unconstitutional, and granted an injunction against the city.

The city appealed to the Supreme Court, and Division 2 of the Court, in July 1943, declared the ordinance valid. The company appealed to the Supreme Court en banc, and that body, on last March 6, upheld the ordinance. The company then sought a rehearing before the Court en banc, which was granted, and as a result of the hearing, the Court today reversed itself, in the opinion written by Judge Laurance M. Hyde, the other members concurring.

The ground on which the court finally held the ordinance unconstitutional was that it was a special enactment, and as such forbidden by the Constitution. The ordinance provided exemption for any company which had heretofore accepted the previous city ordinance imposing a 5 per cent tax. This was intended to exempt Union Electric, which, as it was already paying the tax, was not to be subjected to the new levy.

However, the Supreme Court held that the ordinance, by its wording, set up an exempt class, with retroactive standards, into which class it was impossible for Laclede Power & Light, or any later competitor, to enter; this was held to be unconstitutional.

Laclede Power & Light is an affiliate of Laclede Gas Light Co. Laclede Gas now pays a 5 per cent license tax on gross receipts. The tax which the city sought to ivey on the power company was in the nature of an occupational tax.

De Gaulle Hails Elba Victors.

BASTIA, Corsica, July 1 (Delayed) (AP). — Gen. Charles de Gaulle, en route to Algiers, made a flying visit to the French colonial conquerors of the Island og Elba on their return to Corsica. In the climax of a week-long celebration for the victors, the French leader was given a wildly-enthusiastic reception.

REA AID ON 6TH DAY OF HUNGER STRIKE 'DOESN'T MISS FOOD'

Chester Lake Says He Feels Better Than Most People Who Eat 3 Times a Day.

Chester Lake, who has lost considerable weight since he took his last meal on Wednesday, took up three notches in his belt today as he began the sixth day of his hunger strike against "political domination" of the Rural Electrification Administration.

"Surprisingly, I don't seem to miss food, and I feel better than most people who eat three meals a day," the former REA official declared. He was unable to say just how much of his 200 pounds he has lost since his fast began, but he pointed out that his clothing was getting too large for him, and estimated he was losing possibly a pound and one-half a day. He spends much of his time in bed at his home, 5533 Cates avenue.

Lake, who wrote President Roosevelt he was determined to eat nothing "until such time as you or Congress free the rural electrification program for the farmers of America," was undaunted by the news that Congress, although planning to reconvene Aug. 1, will handle no major legislative work until after Labor day.

A veteran of nine years' service with REA, Lake was representative of Administrator Harry Slattery until the Department of Agriculture "abolished" his job last Friday.

$560, 10 Cases of Whisky Stolen.

A total of $560 in cash and 10 cases of whisky, valued at $300, were stolen yesterday from an apartment occupied by Vic Williams above his tavern at 517 Illinois avenue, East St. Louis, Williams reported to police. The loot was taken from a closet that was used as a store room while Williams and his wife were in the tavern below.

World Money Conference Elects U. S. Delegates as Chairmen of Stabilization, Steering Groups

Briton and Mexican Head Other Commissions — Work of Conferees 'More Than Half Done' at Advance Session Attended by 16 Nations.

By DONALD KOVACIC

BRETTON WOODS, N. H., July 3 (AP).

CHAIRMANSHIPS of two vital segments of the United Nations monetary conference went to the United States today—the conference steering committee and the commission to draft plans for a national stabilization fund.

The conference accepted without a dissenting vote nominations submitted to the second plenary session by Walter Nash, New Zealand delegate.

Great Britain was awarded chairmanship of the commission to outline a world reconstruction bank, and Mexico took over the group assigned to pursue "other means of international financial co-operation."

M. S. Stepanov, head of the Russian delegation, was named first vice-president of the conference.

Gathered around a linen-covered, U-shaped table in the Mount Washington Hotel auditorium, the delegates concluded their first working meeting after adopting a resolution expressing admiration for the "heroic efforts" of the Allies "to achieve a quick victory which will make possible a new era of world co-operation for the good of all peoples."

Proposed by the Peruvian delegation, it brought a response from Senator Tobey (Rep.), New Hampshire, asserting that success of the conference will pave the way for "a permanent world peace."

"We must not, we cannot, we dare not fail," Tobey declared. "The hopes and aspirations of the common people of each of our countries rests in us."

The conference moved into its first full working day with its task in the words of one highly-placed official "better than half finished."

He said preconference sessions at Atlantic City were so successful the talks here on proposals to create an international stabilization fund and a world reconstruction bank might be concluded in less than the allotted three weeks.

Harry D. White, monetary expert for the United States Treasury and a member of the American delegation, told a press conference yesterday that the Atlantic City gathering of financial technicians attempted to reach no agreements because the conference would not be bound by them. However, 16 of the 44 nations participating in the talks here were represented at the Atlantic City sessions and acceptance of their report was regarded as a formality.

One source said they had disposed of "a number" of thorny problems. The others were narrowed to alternate proposals for conference action.

White took an optimistic view of the speed with which the conference was expected to proceed; he said conversations on the world bank might start "by the end of the week." The agenda calls for the stabilization proposal, designed to promote world trade by halting widely fluctuating money values, to be disposed of before the lending agency is taken up.

There was no disclosure of decisions reached at Atlantic City, although White confirmed earlier reports that the silver issue would reach the conference floor. This plan to tie world currencies to a bimetallic base is known to run counter to United States Treasury views, and its acceptance appeared highly improbable.

White promised the reporters assigned to the conference a daily report on all business sessions and inaugurated a departure in press relations by promising to give the reporters, in strictest confidence, the official working document, prepared for delegates. This is to be released, day by day, as the talks proceed. "We are doing this," he told the press conference, "because we want the public to fully understand what is going on."

Interpreting the War News

AIR POWER HAMSTRINGS NAZIS

By MAJ. GEORGE FIELDING ELIOT

(Copyright, 1944.)

IT is reasonably clear, from the reports coming in from the Normandy battle front, that the Germans are not yet able to produce a really formidable concentration of power for a major counter-attack. The old "patching" process continues. Units reaching the battlefield have to be thrown in to plug up the holes. Reports from British military observers say that the series of attacks on June 29 were the only occasion on which the Germans were able to use their armor scientifically; otherwise, before and after that day, they have been compelled to waste it in a scattering of small "shows" along the front of the British-Canadian bridgehead beyond the Odon River.

The attacks of the 29th were really strong attacks, lasting for about four hours. The Germans took some ground and infiltrated into the British lines, but they were thrown out during the night, apparently because they did not have enough infantry to consolidate their gains.

It is interesting to note that these successful counterattacks were carried out by a new British infantry division which had never before been under fire. This is not only a fine testimonial to the quality of the men to the battle leadership of the junior officers, but it emphasizes the value of the realistic combat training which has been carried out, using actual battle conditions and even live ammunition. It speaks well for the prospects of the many new and untried divisions, American as well as British, which must in the course of the next few weeks or months be thrown into action against the German veterans.

Nazis Lack Mobility.

The Germans continue to suffer the consequences of a lack of strategic mobility. This is in large part due to the operations of our air forces, aided of course by the French underground. From British sources comes an estimate that 90 per cent of all German traffic in the vast area between the Seine and the Loire is now moving by motor. That means the railways are virtually out of business, due to the destruction of bridges, yards and tracks, to attacks on locomotives within the area, and to sabotage. It is a heavy handicap for the Germans, especially when it is pointed out by incidents like the destruction of 1000 German vehicles at one blow by heavy bombers on the evening of June 30. German tanks are reported compelled to move toward the battle area by road, on their own tracks, which means that when they reach the front they are generally in need of repair before they can be used.

All this has its efefct on the decisions of the German commander-in-chief. He cannot count on any unit reaching its destination on time, or intact. He must, therefore, be extremely careful about committing any large part of his reserve forces to the Normandy action. If he does so, not only can he not be sure that it will be effectively used, but he can not be sure when and in what condition he can get it back if he suddenly needs it elsewhere. He knows roughly what Allied forces are in front of him in Normandy, but he does not know what other Allied forces are waiting in Great Britian, nor where these forces may be going to hit him. He is reasonably sure that the Allied troops in Normandy represent only a fraction of the strength at the disposal of Gen. Eiseenhower, and that is probably the most disquieting of the considerations upon which his actions must be based.

Impotent Luftwaffe.

The German commander-in-chief cannot find out what Eisenhower is going to do next because he cannot use air reconnaissance freely. Indeed, the Luftwaffe in France is now, in general, operating either from bases south of the Loire, or bases far to the east near the German frontier. From all nearer bases they have been driven by the constant attention of the Allied flyers.

It is impossible for Field Marshal von Rundstedt to get any reliable information under these difficult conditions. A few missions, perhaps, may with great difficulty be flown over Allied territory, but the continuous painstaking work of air reconnaissance and photography which is so invaluable to the Allied commanders is denied to Von Rundstedt. Yet he knows that the Allies have complete command of the sea, he knows that he has to guard a long sea frontier facing the British Isles, and he needs only to look at the map to realize that if he commits the major portion of his striking force as far west as the Normandy bridgehead, he will be laying himself open to a deadly thrust which might strike directly across his communications with Germany.

In the old days when German troops went racing over the face of Europe at terrific speed, under cover of a cloud of planes, these difficulties might be met; but today, when the clouds of planes belong to the other side and when there is none too much motor transport or gasoline available, the German no longer has the strategic mobility to deal with sudden changes in the battle situation.

Normans Not All Overjoyed At Liberation

Many Friendly, but Not Those Whose Homes Have Been Smashed.

By RICHARD L. STOKES

A War Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, June 27 (By Airmail.)

THERE have been violently contradictory reports as to the attitude of the people of Normandy toward the process which is coming to be known facetiously as "liberation." The Post-Dispatch correspondent will attempt to report the facts as he saw them during a 75-mile tour of the upper American occupation area.

The course taken was west from the beachhead to St. Sauveur le Vicomte, by way of Ste. Mere-Eglise and Pont l'Abbe; east again to Ste. Mere-Eglise, south to Carentan, and east to the Channel.

It should be prefaced that Normandy is not typical of France. Its people are tall, broad and blond. Unlike the characteristic gay and volatile Frenchman, the peasant of Normandy is noted for being dour, churlish and morose His avarice is a proverb. The region is a rich agricultural and dairy country. It has not suffered, apparently, from lack of food. The behavior of the Germans in this area seems to have been exceptionally "correct."

Instead of the mild wines of the rest of France, the Normandy peasant is addicted to a potent and fiery brand distilled from apple cider, named calvados.

No Showers of Roses.

I witnessed no ovations or showers of roses. I did behold many smiles, friendly salutes and V signs. In all, perhaps 12 tricolors were seen flying, but only one from a house that had been damaged. On the other hand, I passed scores of peasants, men and women, who stood silent and motionless as American troops passed, and regarded them with a fixed stare.

The difference of attitude was found to coincide with the volume of havoc wrought by the operations of war. Where the damage was small, everything was amicable. When the ruin was extensive, it was the reverse. The conclusion may be drawn that the peasants of Normandy are neither pro-German nor anti-Ally, but fiercely pro-property.

It is only fair to say that their dislike, when it exists, is returned with interest by American soldiers. Probably with justice, they suspect the presence of quislings in every village. They were filled with rage at stories of Yanks who were killed by French girl snipers, although Allied headquarters has announced there have been no verified cases. Though the evidence was always at second or third hand, I was assured by many American soldiers that a French priest—or a German disguised as a French priest—was caught signaling the movements of our troops from the steeple of a church in Ste. Mere-Eglise, and that he was executed on the spot.

Again and again, from American doughboys, I heard the exclamation: "Good God, is this what we came over here to liberate?"

The Peasant's Plight.

But there is also a case for the peasant. His home and its furnishings, often family heirlooms for generations, and his historic churches lie in dust and rubble. Without a "by your leave," his fields have been dug up for foxholes and ravaged by the tracks of tanks. His precious orchards have been destroyed or limbs have been torn from trees to make coverts for vehicles. His cows have been milked into tin helmets or even barbecued.

He may well reflect that three weeks of liberation have proved more costly and painful than four years of Nazi occupation.

AMERICAN sailors, on leave, are often startled to have strangers in the London streets, particularly women, suddenly pat them on the left shoulder, usually where the star is on their white collar. There is an old superstition in this country that it is good luck to touch a sailor.

Naval officers have been startled by a fad that has appeared among enlisted seamen. Some have taken to wearing rings in their left ears, the lobes of which are pierced. The explanation seems to hark back to another marine superstition—namely, that piercing the ears improves the eyesight.

SOMEWHERE in the South of England area is a hotel known as a "lucky inn." During the great blitz it escaped without a hit, though buildings on all sides were dashed to rubble.

Flying bombs have struck many times in the vicinity. Two have fallen fairly close but the only damage has been broken windows.

The hotel's mascot is a large black tomcat named Tiddy. But now he has acquired a bad case of jitters. The other night, while alarm sirens screamed, a group of us sat in the lobby. By accident, someone dropped a book. Tiddy, who was dozing, jumped two feet in the air.

Superfortress Has Firing System Like a Warship's; Remote Control

Gunners Twirl Lightweight Sighters — Shells for 20-Millimeter Cannon Fed by Belt.

By RICHARD G. BAUMHOFF

Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

DETAILS of the powerful armament of the Superfortress bomber, its remote control of weapons and its ability to pour the co-ordinated fire of a cannon and machine guns on any given point of attack, have been disclosed by the United States Army Air Forces. Publication became possible because the enemy has had opportunity to learn about these things as a result of combat action.

General descriptions of the Superfortress, Boeing's B-29, were made public June 15, the day a group of the new planes flew from China and bombed the Japanese steel works at Yawata. Later it was made known that the plane is equipped with air-pressure control for the cabin, contributing greatly to its operating efficiency.

A general who has directed production of the Superfortress told this writer and other reporters at a preview at Wichita, Kan., early in May that "it has more armament than any plane you ever saw," but the explanation of this lies, not in the actual number of guns, but, in the method of controlling and firing them, and the provision for co-ordinating their fire.

Cannon Shells on Belt.

Armament, as the plane leaves the factory, consists of an undisclosed number of machine guns of .50-caliber each, mounted in power turrets, and a 20-millimeter cannon. More machine guns can be added at Army modification centers, if desired. The cannon shells are fed on a belt, similar to machine-gun operation, so that the little cannon is virtually a super-machine-gun of relatively slow fire.

Defensively the Superfortress relies to a great extent on its speed and altitude, which enable it to operate where enemy fighter planes cannot linger long to harass it. This was demonstrated in the raid on Yawata. The Superfortress operates without fighter escort.

The remote control firing system is an innovation for airplane gun firing, somewhat comparable to the system used by the Navy on warships. Instead of actually pointing the guns themselves, the gunners on the Superfortress merely twirl lightweight sighters mounted at the respective gunner stations. Through the plane's elaborate electrical system each turret twists with the sighter. Remote control, officers say, makes possible a smaller crew and bigger destructive load, and better co-ordination of fire.

How Gunners Are Placed.

Every gunner has an excellent view of his field of action; a side gunner, by leaning out in his glass blister, can see around the tail or directly beneath the plane.

Six or seven members of the crew ride in the forward cabin. These, of course, include the pilot and the co-pilot, also the bombardier, who rides in the glass "greenhouse" at the very front. This section is connected with the waist cabin by a tunnel, big enough for a man to crawl through, over the forward bomb bay. In the waist cabin sit two side gunners and a top gunner—the latter perched in a revolving chair. The pressure control system is operative in the forward and waist cabins and the connecting tunnel, but not in a utility chamber which is back of the waist cabin and over the rear bomb bay.

The pressure control operates, however, in the limited quarters of the tail gunner, whose bullet-proof glass house is the extreme rear unit.

Ack-Ack Crew Works Nights, Sleeps Days

Men in Normandy Haven't Dug Fox Holes; Have No Need for Them.

By ERNIE PYLE

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

IN NORMANDY (By Wireless)

THIS ack-ack crew of mine is having its first taste of war. And after three weeks or so of it they feel that they are the best gun crew in the best battery of the best ack-ack battalion on the beachhead.

It would be close to impossible for a German bomber to pick out their position at night, yet this crew feels that the Germans have singled them out because they're so good. As far as I can learn, practically all the other gun crews feel the same way. That's what is known in military terms as good morale.

My crew consists of 13 men. Some of them operate the dials on the gun, others load and fire it, others lug the big shells from a storage pit a few feet away.

These big 90-millimeter guns usually operate in batteries, and a battery consists of four guns and the family of technicians necessary to operate the many scientific devices that control the guns.

The four guns of this particular battery are dug into the ground in a small open field, about 50 yards apart. The gunners sleep in pup tents or under half tracks hidden under trees and camouflage nets.

The boys work all night and sleep in the daytime. They haven't dug foxholes, for the only danger is at night and they are up firing all night.

The guns require a great deal of daytime work to keep them in shape, so half of the boys sleep in the forenoon and half in the afternoon while the other half work.

Still Try to Keep Clean.

Their life is rugged, but they don't see the seamiest side of the war. They stay quite a while in one place, which makes for comfort, and they are beyond enemy artillery range. Their only danger is from bombing or strafing, and that is not too great. They are so new at war that they still try to keep themselves clean. They shave and wash their clothes regularly.

Their service section has not

Britain's Recall of Envoy Termed Proof of Allied Unity on Argentina

Observers View United Nations' Moves Led by U. S. as 'Mild Warning,' but Doubt Effectiveness of Mere Diplomatic Actions.

By ALLEN HADEN

The Chicago Daily News—Post-Dispatch Special Cable. Copyright, 1944.

BUENOS AIRES, July 3.

THERE has been much ado, especially since the war, about the "divergent" policies of the United States and Great Britain in regard to Argentina. Now this old argument seems to have been rebutted by the recall to London over the week end of British Ambassador Sir David Kelly. It is announced that Sir David intends to depart from Buenos Aires within a few days.

The argument had received new impetus last week when, after Washington's recall of Ambassador Norman Armour, it was stated in London that Kelly's recall for consultation was not contemplated.

With this latest withdrawal, ambassadorial absenteeism here has acquired near unanimous proportions, the envoys of Mexico, Nicaragua, Paraguay, Uruguay, Brazil and Chile being outstanding among United Nations' departures. It is an exodus that has coincided, or followed closely on the publication by the United States State Department of War Minister Col. Juan Domingo Peron's lecture at La Plata University on June 10, in which he defined his views on war and peace and voiced militarist and expansionist ideas.

Col. Peron, predicting world anarchy after the war, maintained that efforts to establish international order would be futile. Neither did he see any difference between Axis or United Nations' victory, viewing the symbols of democracy merely as Utopian slogans for winning public support for war. He foresaw a totalitarian state as the only solution for Argentine needs.

(The Associated Press reported from Buenos Aires that Col. Peron told foreign correspondents today the United States State Department's version of his speech was so mutilated as to distort his meaning completely. He said he believed some ill-intentioned persons gave the Department a spurious text of his remarks.)

Most observers here suppose that the diplomatic moves are intended as a mild warning to Argentina. They opine, however, that strictly diplomatic action is not likely to achieve any substantial alteration of Argentine foreign policy.

Nevertheless, the press in Buenos Aires has anxiously examined reports emanating from Washington—subsequently denied—that economic sanctions were contemplated. Both the liberal pro-Allied press and that portion which is anti-Allied in tone has unanimously condemned the possible application of economic sanctions. Also, in general, the press has been critical of the State Department's publication of Col. Peron's speech. Strict censorship here permitted the publication of the text as released as well as comment originating in the United States.

La Fronda, an anti-Allied newspaper, emphasizes that Col. Peron's speech was a personal analysis of history and did not amount to a definition either of his own nor his Government's Weltanschauung (world philosophy).

There has been no official comment on the recall of the American and British ambassadors and the exodus of Allied diplomatic envoys. Press and private speculation, however, has reached the concensus that relations between Argentina and the Allied nations have deteriorated.

Argentina Suspends Pro-Axis Paper for Assailing Action.

BUENOS AIRES, July 3 (AP).—The Argentine Government today closed for eight days the nationalist and pro-Axis newspaper Cabildo because of an editorial in which it sharply criticised the United States State Department for its reaction to War Minister Peron's La Plata speech.

Cabildo on Saturday commented that "tremendous calm" was required to maintain dignity of language in commenting on the United States State Department's "arbitrary interpretation."

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Lesson of Preparedness

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Americans are factual about everything except war. All recorded history shows that war is a fundamental fact in national life. The simple African tribesmen understood this and built great "head-houses" where they stored their weapons and materials of war ready for instant use. We, the supposedly most intelligent of the races of men, have resolutely closed our eyes to the facts of national life and have been surprised by each succeeding war.

In the face of our long history of unpreparedness and the needless slaughter of our young men which has too often been the result (heroic Philip Joyce of St. Louis died on an over-age destroyer reputedly not equipped with modern anti-aircraft guns), it is high time that our newspaper editors as leaders of thought raised insistent voice for the maintenance of adequate facilities for the protection of the nation in a world where the seeds of hate have been so lavishly sown.

America cannot be free if it is not physically protected by means constantly modernized, and our editors should understand this better than any other class of citizens. For that reason, a proper provision in our postwar program should be the creation of great national arsenals rather than the scrapping of our super war plants, such as the small-arms plant here in St. Louis. We must, after all, be prepared to live in the world of realism.

VINCENT P. RING.

Bargains in Building Designs

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

You may do a lot of good to many unemployed architectural draftsmen if you would encourage all those who intend to build homes or other buildings to have their plans prepared now.

Prospective builders will save money and trouble if they give the draftsmen a chance now instead of waiting for the war to end. G. F. T.

Adults Only; No Children

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

We live in a four-room apartment on the second floor in a row of flats, and the only time the children get to play on the ground is when we take them to a nearby park. I know we aren't the only ones living under these conditions, but nevertheless it hurts to watch your children grow up without the advantages they should have.

We have been looking for a place to move for so long I get raving mad when I pick up a paper to look at the "for rent" ads and all I can see is "adults only" or "no children."

Don't you think it would be a grand thing if all the newspapers would refuse to print the words "adults only" and "no children"? Let these landlords stop hiding behind the printed page, come out and face us parents of the future generation, and tell us to our faces that they won't have children.

MRS. P. B. GOSNELL.

Why the Inconsistency?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

My son was wounded in Italy. I heard he was in a hospital. So, knowing through his letters that everything is rationed, I fixed a four-pound box for him. When I took it to the postoffice, they told me I could not send it without a request, but that if he had been a sailor or a Marine, I would need no request.

I do not get it.

SOLDIER'S MOTHER.

Destructive Children

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Much has been said about the city having to employ more officers to protect public property, and about people dumping trash in the streets. But is any effort being made by city officials to protect the property and the rights of people from children who use everybody's property as a playground and take over some streets entirely in such a way that it is not safe even to try to drive through them?

As a rule, these children do not live in the neighborhood. They make a lot of noise and destroy lawns. In a case I have in mind, it is only two blocks to a large park, but these children, led by two older boys, spend hours each day running over lawns, stepping on flowers, turning on outside water faucets and the like.

But no officer or any other city official ever makes any effort to stop this.

ANOTHER ST. LOUISAN.

Luce and Dewey Again

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Mr. Dewey's acceptance speech showed a lack of experience in both foreign and domestic affairs.

It sounded like the captain of the high school debating team trying to find a punch line to attract the judges. The question he asked was, "Do we have to have a war to create jobs?"

I wonder whom he referred to? This was irrelevant, unethical and nauseating. He still sounds like the D. A. Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce's speech was also pathetic, in her suggestion that we might have stayed out of the war. She should read "Mein Kampf."

Missouri's Highway Needs

One of the most serious obligations of the Constitutional Convention is to deal realistically with the highway problem in Missouri. In this State, as in others, there has been very little new highway construction since the war began, and maintenance has been severely limited.

Although use of the highways by private passenger automobiles has declined, their use by heavy trucks and busses and Army vehicles has continued. The central location of the State and the fact that a number of important military posts and many war plants are within its borders have brought unusually heavy traffic to our paved highways.

Some of the main State roads, constructed in the early stages of highway engineering development, are virtually worn out. Our highways which are links in the most important transcontinental routes will require large-scale reconstruction when the war is over.

If we are to get promptly at this job of highway reconstruction and expansion, we must be able to co-ordinate our plans with those of the Federal Government, which has appropriated $1,519,138 for the planning of postwar highway projects.

The Federal planning is directed largely toward completion of important interstate routes, with emphasis on linking up the business centers of big cities. Under existing constitutional provisions, Missouri has been virtually precluded from using State funds to build highways and bridges within cities of more than 2500 population.

One of the crying needs is a liberalization of the Constitution so that the State Highway Department will be free to match Federal funds in those instances where the Government wishes to provide for important connecting links passing through cities. The convention's Committee on Highways has approved revisions taking care of this situation; they should be adopted.

Other desirable proposals recommended by the committee would give the Highway Commission clear authority to construct roads to and through State parks and reservations, and to provide for connections with local parkways and other co-ordinated travel facilities.

Of special interest for the coming Air Age is a proposal which would enable the Highway Department, when authorized by the Legislature, to "construct, maintain and control State public ground facilities for aircraft," with funds other than those constitutionally dedicated to highway construction and maintenance.

When war came, Missouri had one of the best improved highway systems in the nation. Wise provisions in the construction amendments under which $135,000,000 of road bonds were issued and sold protected the highway funds against diversion. With this sound financing, and with fairly effective safeguards against political domination of the Highway Department, the State has constructed some 16,000 miles of State highways since 1925 at a cost of $354,730,923.

Although highway revenue from automobile license fees and gasoline tax has declined under war conditions, the Highway Department nevertheless has accumulated a balance of nearly $18,000,000 which places it in a favorable position for promptly matching Federal funds for needed reconstruction and expansion when the war is over.

The convention should give most diligent attention to the State's highway needs, to the end that Missouri may continue to rank high as a good-roads State, and to enjoy the accompanying economic and social advantages.

Farewell to WPA

With few mourners, WPA, all its life the butt of crude humor and target for bitterest recrimination, passed quietly to its rest at midnight, June 30. Quietly, but not without significance, a moral for the future to ponder.

WPA is dead of malnutrition: mass relief is no longer needed, because there is now high employment and bounding prosperity. High and bounding, because we are busy with a war.

Can we keep it up when the war is won? The burden of proof is heavy, the record against us. Let no one say it cannot be done. Some day we will learn to make the country produce abundantly without the spur of a gun pointed at our heads.

But let no one assume, either, that it will not take some strenuous doing.

Oh, well, the Democratic convention probably won't be much fun, either.

No Place for Pleasure Riding

Trains and busses have become military vehicles, and civilian pleasure riders are almost as much out of place on them as they would be in a jeep or a tank or an ambulance bringing back wounded from the front.

ODT Director Johnson has issued a warning that the railroads and busses are carrying all the passengers they can possibly carry—but that room must be made for the thousands of wounded coming back from the invasion fronts. The only way to do it, he said, is for the estimated 20 per cent who are pleasure riders to give up their pleasure in deference to our wounded fighting men.

Organized troop movements account for some 1,500,000 passengers a month and require one-half of the Pullman space and one-third of the day-coach space on regularly scheduled trains. Furloughs represent an equal volume. War production also has heavily increased passenger travel.

Burdened now to the very limit, the railroad systems in the United States are preparing for a 10-fold increase in the number of wounded, and they are having to do so at the very time when vacation travel is at its peak.

July and August will be the critical months, ODT says. So, starting with the Fourth of July holiday, Americans have been asked not to make trips for pleasure, inasmuch as the transportation systems are needed in their entirety for grim business.

Thousands of Americans have rejected this patriotic appeal. Fourth of July week-end pleasure travel has gone to monstrous proportions—probably breaking the all-time record set last year.

ODT has given the railroads legal authority to put off any passengers whose seats are needed for the wounded. From now on, unessential passengers may be put off trains at any way station, or, if they reach their destinations, they may be stranded there.

Willful pleasure riders who come to grief need expect no sympathy and no calls for special measures to be taken for their aid. They have been warned amply.

A Plot Against the Income Tax

The Treasury Department announces its opposition to a proposal that the Federal income tax be limited to a maximum of 25 per cent. The statement is doubtless the first inkling for many citizens that a pressure-group movement for such a scheme is quietly under way, and that it has already been approved in resolution form by 16 state Legislatures. This is exactly half the number required to compel Congress to call a Constitutional Convention for approval of the plan. The Treasury clearly wants to bring the subject into the open, where public opinion can deal with it.

The arbitrary 25 per cent limit would wreck the whole income-tax structure by repealing its basic principle of taxation in accordance with ability to pay, as written into the Constitution in 1913. It would mean revenue losses estimated by the Treasury at five billion dollars a year, a disastrous amount either in wartime or in the postwar period, and would make deficits probable even in a prosperous year. It would mean a bonanza for the persons with upper-bracket incomes, and an added burden for those in the lower brackets.

The scheme is so preposterous that it seems unbelievable it has received serious consideration in any quarter. Yet the undercover campaign of the Committee for Constitutional Government, founded by Frank Gannett, has raised a huge fund for putting this over, and has lobbied in the Legislatures with slogans advocating preservation of "free enterprise."

Such a greedy grab as this could never, of course, win the approval of the public. Hence the tactic of working on the Legislatures, where the wiles of the shrewd lobbyist have greater opportunity for success.

Now that the Treasury has taken notice of this plot against the income tax, Congress ought to look into it as well, and the public should become aware of what the lobby is attempting to put over.

Mr. Bowles Holds the Line

Cotton interests profess to interpret the OPA revision measure as calling for a blanket price increase on all items made of their product, but Administrator Bowles does not agree. He held firmly to his contention in a two-day conference with cotton manufacturers, and the result is an order limiting price increases to about one-third of the list. Mr. Bowles expresses the hope that part of the authorized $150,000,000 increase will be absorbed by manufacturing concerns instead of being passed on to the consumer.

The public owes a vote of thanks to the Administrator for continuing to hold the anti-inflation line. Price rises are bad news, but it can be said of the cotton phase, as of the whole OPA Extension Act, "It might have been worse."

Party convention: A gathering at which a candidate who isn't running is selected by a meeting that hasn't opened.

Good Faith in the Philippines

In the normal course of events, the Philippines would become independent of the United States July 4, 1946. By the terms of a resolution just made law, that date may be accelerated, depending on how long it takes to eject the Japs from the islands.

It could be contended that acting in this time of uncertainty is more a handsome gesture than a stroke of statesmanship. Nevertheless, it not only reaffirms our intention to avoid any suspicion of imperialism; it says that we are happy and eager to show once again our belief in freedom for the Filipinos. By virtue of this act, our voice in the postwar arrangements for other weak lands gains a new power. We will come, as it were, to the peace tables with hands newly washed.

Not that the hands were not reasonably clean before. True, we have the stain of Nicaragua on our record. The situation in Puerto Rico is still far from pretty. And in the Philippines our policy wavered between benevolent exploitation and the desire to liberate, until the onset of the Great Depression joined liberationist forces and domestic commercial interests which feared further competition from duty-free Philippine products. But ever since the Independence Act was passed in 1933, there has been a continuous sincere effort to provide for launching the Philippines as a nation not only free but able to survive in a world of mightier neighbors and fearful economic forces.

In the finest sense of the word, the popular Quezon Government and the United States Government have collaborated. And what their collaboration has now produced, and is still producing, is a shining thing in a world engaged in a re-dedication to human dignity and friendship among all peoples.

OPA having looked the situation over, what this country is going to get is a good 5-cent cup of coffee.

H. W. and G. K.

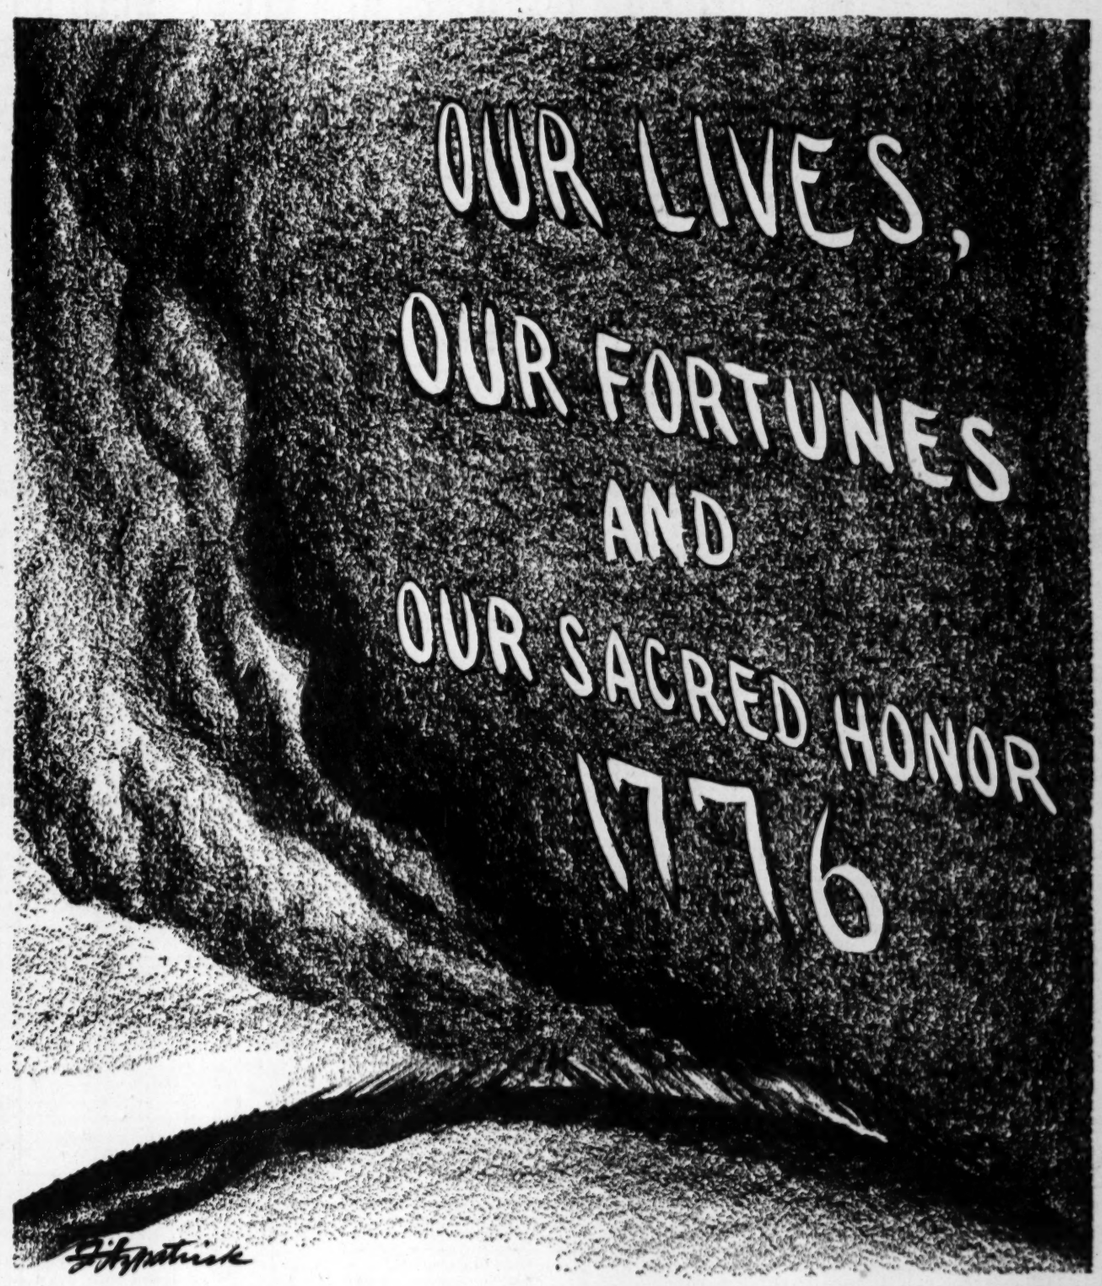
It may not be without point that, just before leaving China, the gentle, philosophical Henry Wallace visited the shrine of Genghis Khan at Lanchow.

G. K., as everyone knows, was quite a killer and even the unbloodthirsty H. W., as he pondered the career of the Mongol conqueror, must have had pleasant thoughts of rapine and carnage.

For H. W. is coming back to face the Democratic convention, where his numerous enemies lie in wait with all the bludgeon-like instruments of past and present political warfare.

Will Henry Wallace—the question rings out clear—be a candidate for Vice-President to succeed himself? Yes, he will and, with old Genghis Khan fresh in mind, he's going after it with something more lethal than an Australian boomerang.

A fisherman fell out of a boat and caught a pickerel in his trouser-leg. It certainly beats the old hook-and-line method.



TIME FOR RE-DEDICATION

Indian Exclusion: An Anachronism

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Immigrants from India were not denied American citizenship until 1923, writer says; persecution followed previous acceptance; new eligibility of the Chinese makes their exclusion more unjust than ever, since it denies to a small minority the rights it once enjoyed.

Anup Singh, Director of Research, India League of America, in Asia and the Americas

There are at present about 3000 natives of India in the United States, perhaps the smallest minority group. The lure of America, land of freedom and opportunity, attracted them here around 1907, as it has always attracted people from all over the world.

The early immigrants from India settled mostly in California, where they worked as farm hands, and some of them subsequently owned and operated their own farms. They raised rice, cotton and vegetables. They have been recognized as hard-working, law-abiding people, whose contribution to the enrichment of the state has been large in proportion to their numbers.

Bars Put Up in 1917

On Feb. 5, 1917, the United States Congress passed the Naturalization Act and the Immigration Act that barred further immigration from a designated zone crossing much of South and Central Asia. India is in this barred zone. Thereafter, only a handful of business men and students under special visas were occasionally admitted.

Unlike the Chinese and the Japanese, the immigrants from India had the full right to American citizenship, and many of them had availed themselves of the privilege. Then, on Feb. 19, 1923, the late Justice Sutherland of the Supreme Court of the United States held (in U.S. vs. Thind, 261 U.S. 204) that a Hindu is not a "white person" within the meaning of the revised statute, 2169, relating to the naturalization of aliens.

The learned Justice based this momentous decision on the grounds that "free white person" are words of common speech to be interpreted in accordance with the understanding of the common man. This decision, sustained merely on the racial prejudice of the "man in the street," was deeply resented in India at the time and still rankles.

A Hardship on Many

The decision caused great suffering, for in some American states the Indian farmers could no longer lease lands in their own names, and professional men were rejected for many positions because they were non-citizens. Some localities applied the law retroactively, and demanded from Indians the surrender of citizenship papers—a wrong that was subsequently rectified.

Today a few Indians naturalized before 1923 are American citizens, while all other Indian residents are ineligible—a singularly anomalous situation. The United States has always stood for human rights, freedom of equality. Only by violating its own ideals can it discriminate against any people on the basis of race.

By depriving the people of India of the rights they once enjoyed, the United States has weakened Indian good will toward Americans—and good will among the nations is a vital need today.

Chinese Are Now Eligible

When the Chinese were made eligible to American citizenship and Chinese immigration was placed on a quota basis, the United States took the wind out of Japanese propaganda and earned the good will of the Chinese. The arguments that prompted Congress in the case of the Chinese are equally pertinent in the case of Indians.

India, like China, is a member of the United Nations, and its soldiers are fighting and dying with Americans. Thousands of Americans have always been accorded equal rights and privileges in India. The least America can do is to reciprocate.

Indians, like the Chinese, should be put on an annual quota, which would be no more than a mere 75 or so.

It is not a special favor, only justice, that the people of India ask.

Quota Basis for People of India Urged in Justice to Valued Ally

From the New York Times.

One of the undeniable achievements of the present Congress was the repeal last year of the Chinese Exclusion Acts and the modification of other statutes prohibiting the immigration of Chinese and their admission to citizenship. The long heroism of the Chinese people, our comrades in war, prompted this retraction.

The annual quota of Chinese immigrants is but 105. The Chinese don't deny our right to restrict immigration. They resented the stigma that marked all of them, a people of ancient civilization, as undesirable and inadmissible. They were gratified by its removal.

Another ancient people, the people of India, is still subject to our taboo. Indian soldiers—mighty good soldiers, too—have fought for us in Burma and North Africa. They are fighting for us now on other fronts. In land operations against the Japanese, their aid will be of great value.

Are the Indians not entitled to ask, as they are asking, no longer to be excluded from entry into the United States and from American citizenship? They seek this enlargement of right as a token. Their yearly quota of immigrants would be about 75.

The removal of a mark just offensive to their pride and self-respect will be not merely testimony of our gratitude for their armed aid, but a matter of justice and equality of treatment. We have lifted the bars for the Chinese. We can afford to do the same for the Indians. We can't afford to do otherwise.

Report on British Health Plan Is Timely Reading in America

"A National Health Service," Issued by the British Ministry of Health and the Department of Health for Scotland. (Macmillan Co., New York.)

It is unusual to find a commercial publishing house, particularly in a time of paper shortage, bringing out in book form an official document issued in another country. There is good reason for this American edition of the British White Paper on health service, however, in the current discussions here of somewhat similar proposals now pending before Congress. Also, it demonstrates that official reports need not be tedious reading, for this one is a clear, even bright, exercise in the King's English.

This White Paper was presented to Parliament last February as the outline of "a comprehensive health service for everybody in this country." The details for Scotland differ slightly in view of local conditions there, hence the joint sponsorship of British and Scottish health authorities.

Briefly, the purpose is to provide for all British citizens, "irrespective of means, age, sex or occupation, equal opportunity to benefit from the best and most up-to-date medical and allied services available and . . . to encourage a new attitude to health—the easier obtaining of advice early, the promotion of good health rather than only the treatment of bad." The cost is to be met from taxation and public payments.

This may seem revolutionary to Americans, but it is introduced by a British Government dominated by the Conservative, or Tory, party. The plan has been applauded by the British public, the press and the medical profession. Such approval is explainable in part by the fact that Britain for some 30 years has had a national medical insurance plan for low-income workers, and this, within its limitations, has proved so successful that medical men, at first violently opposed, are now its strong supporters. The new plan is a broadening and extension of the insurance system.

The White Paper sets forth its provisions in detail and gives a report on the current status of medical care in England. The relations between patient and physician are taken into careful consideration, for the goal is defined as "ensuring a personal or family doctor for everybody." Patients will be able to choose their own physicians under the plan, and to change to others if they like. Doctors "must remain free to direct their clinical knowledge and personal skill in the way they feel to be best." They will be paid salaries or stated fees per patient, as they wish. Patients or physicians who want to continue under the present system may do so, and doctors will be compensated for any loss of practice suffered as a result of the new plan. "The practice of medicine is an individual and personal art," the report says.

The volume should be a major contribution to policy-making on this subject in England, and it is intended to be, for the introduction says, "The Government want these proposals to be freely examined and discussed." Perhaps a similar report in this country would clear up some of the confusion that has arisen over the health section of the Wagner-Murray-Dingell social security bill. FERD GOTTLIEB.

Stories by Damon Runyon

A fine collection of short stories by a writer sometimes called the modern O. Henry is to be found in "The Damon Runyon Omnibus" (Sun Dial Press). The 505-page volume is a combined reprint of three earlier Damon Runyon books. It is filled with the "guys and dolls" and other assorted Broadway characters about whom Mr. Runyon spins his slangy yarns.

DOROTHY THOMPSON

Speech vs. Platform

CHICAGO.

THE convention, as I have previously said, drew up a nationalist back-to-normalcy platform. Furthermore, that sort of platform reflected the mentality of the delegates. It was a Bricker platform and this was a Bricker convention.

But, in his entire acceptance speech, Gov. Dewey never mentioned the platform. His only reference to any party declaration was to the Mackinac statement, which he accepted. On the contrary, he somewhat startled the convention, and I thought not altogether favorably, with the announcement, "I come to this great task a free man. I have made no pledges, promises or commitments, expressed or implied, to any man or woman. I shall make none except to the American people." This can be interpreted as freeing him from the 5000 words which represent the labor of Senators Taft, Vandenberg and others who framed the teeter-totter called a platform.

Tribute to F. D. R.

He confined his attack on the Roosevelt administration to the points where it is really vulnerable. In this, he is unlike most Republicans who never seem to have got it through their heads that Mr. Roosevelt is a tremendously popular and beloved President and the New Deal the recipient of the gratitude of millions. He even had the grace and sense to pay the President a tribute. "They tell us that it (the New Deal) in its young days did some good things. That we freely grant." The audience freely granted nothing of the kind and met this remark by dead silence.

He confined his critique of the administration to three things, all of which are true. He accused it of being inefficient in organization, secretive toward the people in its actual day-to-day diplomatic conduct of foreign affairs, and grown old, tired and quarrelsome in many years of office. He accused it of having been defeatist toward the American future, and he charged it with but one single major economic failure of not solving the problem of mass unemployment, except through re-armament.

An Albatross.

Now, it is precisely these shortcomings which are all but universally felt by the American people, particularly by the younger generation. The average American does not feel "regimented" except by necessary war restrictions.

The business men who have made up / Republican leadership have been howling for years about their own troubles. But they are a minority. The mass of the people carry dinner pails or receive salary checks and have never suffered at all what business executives have, or claim to have suffered. Gov. Dewey never once used the word "regimentation," nor did he once falsely accuse the President of having violated the Constitution.

He was also the only speaker in this convention to dare to speak of "full" employment as "the first objective of national policy." This is what every worker and soldier in America wants to hear discussed.

On these lines, Gov. Dewey can be an extremely effective campaigner. But he still has an albatross around his neck—that platform. For he can no more get full employment on the basis of that platform than he can create that great American future of which he also spoke.

LOWELL MELLETT

The U. S. Merchant Fleet

SCHUYLER OTIS BLAND of Virginia and his House Committee on the Merchant Marine are rendering the American people another real public service. This committee was the principal author of the Merchant Marine Act of 1936, under which one of the greatest jobs of the war was made possible. Now, taking time by the forelock again, it is seeking to assure a Merchant Marine fitted to America's needs after the war, seeking to prevent another shipping debacle such as that which followed the First World War.

To this end, the committee is receiving information and opinion from the Maritime Commission, from the men who man the ships and from the men who expect to own them, or considerable part of them, when war shipping gives way to peacetime commerce. There is reason to believe that the committee will come up with a bill calculated to promote the national interest and protect the private interests of all properly concerned.

The act of '36 followed a message of the President in which he said:

In the event of a major war in which the United States is not involved, our commerce, in the absence of an adequate American Merchant Marine, might find itself seriously crippled because of its inability to secure bottoms for neutral peacetime foreign trade.

In the event of a war in which the United States itself might be engaged, American flag ships are obviously needed not only for naval auxiliaries, but also for the maintenance of reasonable and necessary commercial intercourse with other nations. We should remember lessons learned in the last war.

What He Meant.

By "lessons learned in the last war," the President had in mind that we were caught wholly unprepared at that time to move men and materials in our own ships; he must also have had in mind the great shipyard at Hog Island and its delivery of ships—after the armistice.

The act of '36 provided a shipbuilding program that would give this country 500 new, modern vessels in the course of 10 years. By the time of Pearl Harbor, 200 of these ships had been built and the Maritime Commission had acquired the necessary know-how that enabled it to shift to a wartime shipbuilding schedule almost overnight. Old yards were vastly expanded and new yards were built. Men and women—nearly 100,000 women—were recruited and training courses opened. Some 700,000 workers were presently on the job in yards that operated 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Fine Production Record.

In passing, it should be noted that this program has been carried through almost literally without a strike, sit-down or lockout.

The result was 728 ships, totaling 8,018,000 deadweight tons, built in 1942, and 1949 ships, totaling 19,297,000 tons, built in 1943. The rate of production in '43 was five ships a day. The rate this year is the same.

Without these ships and the 140,000 trained seamen who man them, we would not have an army of millions overseas, completely equipped and supplied; without this achievement of American shipyards and Merchant Marine, our allies could scarcely have held out. It has been the greatest ship-building and ship-operating job in all history.

Chairman Bland and his committee now are thinking about the future, the problem of what to do with our ships and our seamen when the war is over. They have ideas of their own and are listening to all comers. There is significance in the fact that nobody has come forward with a proposal to junk the ships, as was done in the years following the last war. Instead, there seems to be a general determination that the United States shall continue to have a great merchant fleet, one equal to our needs.

FUNERAL WEDNESDAY FOR NORMAN H. DAVIS

Red Cross Chairman Aided Three Presidents in Various Diplomatic Posts.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., July 3 (AP). — Funeral services will be held Wednesday for Norman H. Davis, chairman of the American Red Cross, who died yesterday of a cerebral hemorrhage at Hot Springs, Va. He was 65 years old.

Davis, who became a millionaire banker in Cuba by the time he was 35, and later was an American "Ambassador at large" in efforts for disarmament and peace, had gone to the resort to rest from heavy duties connected with the war expansion of the Red Cross.

President Roosevelt termed his career one "of great and varied usefulness" and said "he will be long remembered for his services in aid of suffering mankind." Secretary of State Hull called him "an outstanding world statesman . . . an intense patriot."

Nelson Dean Jay of Elmwood, Ill., who has served as a special volunteer assistant to Davis, will assume temporarily th duties of Red Cross Chairman.

Before becoming Red Cross chairman in 1938, Davis had served in various diplomatic posts under Presidents Wilson, Hoover and Roosevelt.

Wilson in 1917 made him a special delegate to Spain and later a Treasury representative in London and Paris, and in 1919 appointed him Assistant Secretary of the Treasury and later Under Secretary of State.

In 1931 he was appointed a member of the League of Nations Financial Commission and subsequently he served as chairman of the American delegation to the World Disarmament Conference in Geneva. He also headed the American delegation to the London naval conferences in 1935 and 1936. About this time he became known as America's "Ambassador-at-Large."

During these conferences he warned Japan that any heavy naval construction by the Japanese would lead to equal activity by other countries.

In addition to heading the American Red Cross, Davis was chairman of the board of governors of the League of Red Cross Societies, composed of the organizations of 61 nations.

Davis is survived by eight children. His wife died several years ago. He was born in Bedford County, Tennessee.

'THEY WERE EXPENDABLE' HERO MARRIED ON RETURN

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 3 (AP).—Lt. Comdr. Robert Bolling Kelly, of New York, hero of the best-seller "They Were Expendable," and Mrs. Hazel Babcock Watts of Malden, a passenger train hostess, were married in Dedham, Mass., May 28, the New Bedford Sunday Standard-Times reported.

The wedding was held soon after Kelly returned on leave from duty as area commander of the motor torpedo boat staff of the Pacific fleet. They met at a reception given to war heroes.

"They Were Expendable," written by William L. White of Emporia, Kan., son of the late William Allen White, told of American torpedo boat operations in the Philippines campaign. It was carried serially in the Post-Dispatch.

In the book, Kelly spoke of "Peggy," an Army nurse, who later was identified as Miss Beulah Greenwalt, sister of Mrs. Jason R. King, of 1504 South Spring avenue. Kelly said Peggy "was a fine nervy girl to have in a war. Or any other time." She was a "brunette," he said, "with blue-green eyes, about medium height and very trim." Mrs. King said "Peggy" is a prisoner at Manila.

HIGHER CEILINGS TO BE SET SOON ON COTTON FABRICS

Third of Products to Be Affected at Mills, Some Rises to Be Passed to Consumer.

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP).—The Office of Price Administration promised today to inform consumers promptly how much more they can expect to pay for shirts, dresses, sheets, pillow cases, etc., under price advances authorized for cotton textile mills as a result of congressional adoption of the Bankhead amendment.

About one-third of all cotton fabric output will command higher prices at the mill, said OPA Administrator Chester Bowles. These include fabrics widely used for moderately priced house dresses, men's shirts and shorts, work clothes and knit cotton underwear.

Bowles said he does not expect that "the net effect upon the cost of living would be substantial."

"Some of the new increases will undoubtedly have to be passed to the consumers," he said. "It is believed, however, that others can be absorbed in whole or in part at intermediate stages of production and distribution. Final decisions upon these questions will be announced promptly."

OPA officials said today their figures still were incomplete but they hoped less than half of the boost would have to be passed on through retail sales.

Even the mills do not yet know the exact ceiling increases to be granted under terms of the Bankhead amendment to the new law extending price controls. The amendment provides that "major items" must get price adjustments to reflect parity to cotton growers. Bowles said the new ceilings would be announced this week, if possible.

The "major" items given increases are: denims, most combed and carded cotton yarns, major types of sheets and pillow cases, 3.60 yard sanforized chambrays, most combed yard fabrics, and knit cotton heavyweight underwear. Manufacturers of "class A" gray print cloth also may make "open contracts," but OPA has not finally decided whether to increase their prices.

The amendment resulting in the increases was offered by Senator Bankhead (Dem.), Alabama.

MAN IN CHILD ABANDONMENT CASE REARRESTED AT HOSPITAL

Arthur S. Vinyard, who with his wife, Gertrude, a midwife, is under bond on a child abandonment charge, was rearrested yesterday when he attempted to visit Miss Hazel V. Sparks, mother of the child, at St. Louis County Hospital. He was held overnight in jail at Clayton on a technical booking "suspected of affray," but was released today.

Mrs. Elizabeth Preston Pearl, a nurse at the hospital, summoned deputies when Vinyard insisted he wished to see Miss Sparks, who is a prisoner at the hospital also charged with child abandonment. The baby, prematurely delivered and weighing four pounds, was taken to the hospital Wednesday by Vinyard. The baby's condition was somewhat better today.

Miss Sparks, 21 years old, an aircraft worker, told police she gave birth to the girl at Mrs. Vinyard's home, 5003A Delmar boulevard.

TWO TAVERN OPERATORS ARRESTED ON LIQUOR CHARGES

William C. Kirkpatrick, owner of a 3.2 beer tavern at 7945 North Broadway, was arrested yesterday by state liquor agents who reported they found him selling beer to customers after his state and federal license had expired last Friday.

Police arrested Vernon Havener, who owns a tavern at 5446 Gravois avenue, booking him as suspected of violating the liquor control act. Havener said the five men found with him in the tavern were there to help him clean up. Police made the charges on grounds that a box of beer was iced and unlocked and liquors on the shelves were not covered from view.

come over yet from England, so they have to cook their own meals. They're pretty sick of this and will be glad when the service boys and the field kitchens catch up with them. They eat 10-in-one rations, heating them over a fire of wooden sticks sunk into a shallow hole in the ground.

The Sergeant who is commander of my gun is a farm boy from Iowa, and none of the crew are past their middle 20s. Only two of the 13 are married.

They have been overseas more than six months, and like everybody else they are terribly anxious to go home. They like to think in terms of anniversaries, and much of their conversation is given to remembering what they were doing a year ago today when they were in camp back in America. They all hope they won't have to go to the Pacific when the European war is over.

My crew are a swell bunch of boys. They all work hard and they work well together. There are no gold-brickers in the crew. As in any group of a dozen men, some are talkative and some are quiet. There are no smart-alecks among them.

Only one man in the crew speaks French. That one has already made friends with the farmers nearby, and they get such stuff as eggs and butter occasionally. They have been promised some chickens, but they haven't showed up yet.

Although the noise and concussion of their gun are terrific, they have got used to it and none of them wears cotton in his ears. They say the two best morale-boosters are the Stars and Stripes newspaper and letters from home.

First Night in France.

My boys are very proud of their first night on the soil of France. They began firing immediately from a field not far from the beach. The snipers were still thick in the surrounding hedges, and bullets were singing around them all night. The boys like to tell over and over how the infantry all around them were crouching and crawling along while they had to stand straight up and dig their guns in.

It takes about 12 hours of good hard work to dig in the guns when they move to a new position. They dig in one gun at a time while the three others are firing. My gun is dug into a circular pit about four feet deep and 20 feet across. This has been rimmed with a parapet of sandbags and dirt, until when you stand on the floor of the pit you can just see over the top. The boys are safe down there from anything but a direct hit.

Their gun is covered in the daytime by a large camouflage net. My crew fires anywhere from 10 to 150 shells a night. In the very early days on the beachhead they kept firing one night until they had only half a dozen shells left. But the supply has been built up now, and there is no danger of their running short again.

The first night I was with them was a slow night and they fired only nine shells. The boys were terribly disappointed. They said it would have to turn out that the night I was with them would be the quietest and also the coldest they had ever had.

So just because of that I stayed a second night with them. And that time we fired all night long. It was indicated that we had brought down seven of the 15 planes we fired at, and the boys were elated.

DR. GLASER'S TITLE NOT TO APPEAR ON BALLOT

Dr. Martin J. Glaser, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Coroner, said today he had been notified by the Board of Election Commissioners his name will appear on the primary ballot without his title of doctor.

A physician and surgeon, Dr. Glaser said he had referred the matter to an attorney to determine whether the board's action is discriminatory. He said the names of other professional men, physicians, dentists and ministers seeking office, appeared on ballots with their titles in previous elections.

The notification, Dr. Glaser said, stated the board's action was based on an opinion by the City Counselor's office that it is unlawful to place any characterization or description either before or after a candidate's name unless there is such identity of names to justify the description "to permit a voter to make an intelligent expression of his choice." Dr. Glaser, who lives at 3550 Hawthorne boulevard, has the indorsement of the St. Louis Medical Society.

1100 AT CLOSED ARMOR PLANT GET 1½-CENT RISE ON BACK PAY

CHICAGO, July 3 (AP).—The Sixth Regional War Labor Board has ordered 1½ cents an hour paid to 1100 employes for the General Steel Castings Corporation, cast armor plant, Madison, Ill., for time worked between July 17, 1943, and Nov. 30, 1943, when the plant closed.

In a decision announced Saturday the board denied the union's request for 2 per cent of earnings in 1943 as vacation pay. The workers were represented by the CIO United Steel Workers of America, local 2947.

The WLB denied the request of the CIO International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, local 638, which asked for a general wage increase for 205 employes of the American Zinc Co. of Illinois. Also denied were night-shift premiums, other wage increases, provision requiring premium pay for holidays, severance pay and union shop. The board ordered maintenance of membership, present vacation practice continued, and 7½ cents an hour wage increase to cell-room employes retroactive to June 1, 1943.

devices on some other warplanes, which automatically calculates the "lead" necessary because of the movement in flight, also allows, in concentrated firing, for the angle of convergence of fire from different turrets.

There is no chin turret, but it has been pointed out by officers that the Flying Fortress had none either, originally. A chin turret could be added to the Superfortress at modification centers, but the plane's nose is considered to be amply protected. For the pilot and co-pilot, bullet-proof shields are provided.

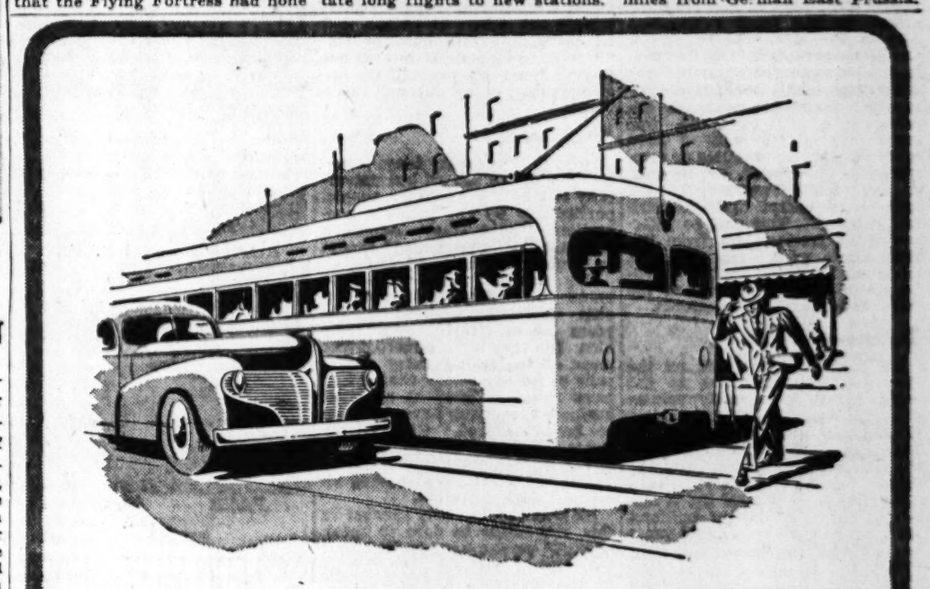
What weight of bombs can be carried has not been disclosed, except that the load exceeds that of the Flying Fortress, which can carry up to 10 tons.

Demountable auxiliary gasoline tanks can be carried in either bomb bay, instead of bombs, to increase range in action or facilitate long flights to new stations.

NAZIS REPORTED MOBILIZING EAST PRUSSIA FOR DEFENSE

NEW YORK, July 3 (AP).—The Stockholm newspaper Morgontidningen says in a dispatch from Bern that the Germans are mobilizing East Prussia "for defense and that "large forces," particularly Baltic "volunteers," have been concentrated there during the last few days.

Moscow announcements have placed the Red Army about 160 miles from German East Prussia.



PLEASE AVOID THIS DANGEROUS PRACTICE

This is a friendly request to those who sometimes get off a street car and walk around behind it to get to the opposite side of the street.

Please avoid this dangerous practice.

When you walk around the rear of a street car, you are risking serious injury. Here's why:

You can't see traffic approaching from your right. And drivers of vehicles can't see you until you're right in their paths. Let's be safe. Let's cross streets at intersections only.

THESE ARE GOOD SAFETY PRACTICES

1. When getting off a street car where there is no safety zone, look for approaching traffic before you step to the street. Go to the nearest curb immediately.

2. When alighting in a safety zone, go to the nearest curb as soon as traffic permits. Then, if you want to cross the street, step to the corner and cross cautiously.

I'm not losing face.

I guess you've seen pictures of those real ancient cars that are quite a fad with some prominent people. I'm no big shot, but folks envy me, even at that, for keeping this car like an heirloom. Oh, some say that any good motor oil would largely do the trick, and they're welcome to believe it. I simply say this: Keeping my engine OIL-PLATED ever since I switched to Conoco N*th* motor oil, has helped me beat the curse of engine acids. I got wise that acids from combustion always try to corrode an engine's inside finish, but OIL-PLATING furnishes special protection. A synthetic in Conoco N*th* oil, I've learned, behaves almost like magnetism. This makes the working parts attract OIL-PLATING, and hold on to it. It's fastened as closely as chrome plating to keep metal under cover from acids. That would certainly be a check on corrosion, from the minute you switch to an OIL-PLATED engine. So just get Conoco N*th* motor oil.

BROAD FORWARD STOCK SWING TO 7-YR. TOP

NEW YORK, July 3 (AP).—Demand shifted from one section of today's stock market to another and the net result was a general advance, which put numerous favorites up fractions to 3 or more points at peaks for one to seven years.

Low-quoted issues were all over the ticker tape at the start, with Commonwealth & Southern coming out in blocks running to 13,000 shares, about unchanged. Bidders then turned to the oils, gave these a run and moved over to the rails. Subsequently steels, motors, aircrafts, sugars and specialties came into the spotlight, while pre-holiday influences tended to slow dealings for pivotals, turnover was in good volume. Trends were at or near the best near the close.

Sales amounted to 1,562,400 shares, compared with 1,750,630 shares last Friday.

Of the 901 issues traded in today, 594 were higher, 134 lower and 173 unchanged. One hundred eight made new 1944 highs and none new 1944 low.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed at 55.8, a rise of .3 of a point and a new high since Oct. 2, 1937. Th erail and utility groups each made new tops.

Factors in Market.

The war news, political wishful thinking and further pressure of idle investment funds received the main credit for the day's performance. Fears of a technical correction, however, stalled many potential buyers.

Prominent on the swing were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Crucible Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Studebaker, Baltimore & Ohio common and preferred, Amerada, Houston Oil, Willys-Overland, Chrysler, Sears-Roebuck, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Electric Power & Light, Certain-teed preferred, U. S. Lines, Webster Eisenlohr, Aviation Corporation, Douglas Aircraft, South Porto Rico Sugar, Fajardo Sugar and American & Foreign Power second preferred.

Trend on the Curb.

Supported in the curb were Creole Petroleum, International Petroleum, Pantepec, Fansteel and St. Regis Paper.

Few customers appeared in boardrooms owing to the fact that many left Friday to stretch their holiday through tomorrow when principal exchanges will suspend for the celebration of Independence Day. Most of the day's business was from out-of-town clients and those who were away at vacation resorts.

The petroleum group came to life partly because of a revival of reports Federal authorities might approve the long-awaited boost in crude prices. The aviation section was buoyed by the belief it had been oversold because of postwar problems which may hit this industry. Individual situations such as expectations of lifted dividends and earnings bolstered some stocks.

News in the Market.

Utilities had the benefit of the Federal Power Commission estimate that electric operating revenues of the larger privately owned companies in this field rose seven per cent between May last year and the like 1944 month. The total, on the basis of preliminary figures, was placed at $251,806,000 last May compared with $235,374,000 a year ago.

RAIL ISSUES GENERALLY HIGHER IN BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, July 3 (AP).—Rail issues were generally higher in today's bond market and several carriers in the reorganization category were heavily traded at advancing prices. Limited dealings in utility and industrial liens left prices generally steady near the closing hour.

North Western Railroad issues accounted for a large turnover with gains ranging from fractions to more than a point. The new 4½s of '99 led this move on a $1,000,000 transaction at 72½, later rising above 73.

Modest gains were recorded by Erie 4½s, Childs Co. 5s, American Telephone 3¼s and Hudson Coal 5s. Bonds fractionally lower included Gulf, Mobile & Ohio incomes and Southern Pacific 4½s of '69.

Argentina bonds were down. U. S. Governments were steady.

Bonds of Baltimore & Ohio and some affiliated properties shower strength in the final hour. B. & O. 4s of '48 closed at 91¼, up 1½ and the stamped '96s finished at 56¾, up ¼.

HEDGE SELLING IS WEIGHT ON WHEAT

CHICAGO, July 3 (AP).—A greater volume of hedge selling than at any time in the past two weeks and a marked decline in milling demand resulted in sharply lower prices for wheat futures today.

There was some commission house buying of September wheat, but anything that approached a rally encouraged heavy offerings. Weakness at other markets and increased receipts of new wheat at Southwestern terminals were principal factors in the decline.

All other grains were down with wheat. Rye trading was quiet and commission houses were on both sides of the oats market.

Wheat closed 1¾-2¼c lower than Saturday's finish; oats were off ½-⅞c; rye was ⅝-1⅛c lower; barley was unchanged to ½c lower.

Attention of the wheat trade was centered on the volume of receipts at Southwestern markets. Arrivals at Wichita were 627 cars and at Salina 548 cars.

The restraint apparent in today's quiet trade probably will continue to govern market operations pending interpretation of parity price legislation. Market operations consider provisions of the parity price law vague and War Food Administration officials were reported to have said they will need thorough legal interpretation before any action is taken.

A record crop has caused an increase in the interest in wheat futures. On May 1 the open wheat contracts were 26,701,000 bushels and now, two months later, are 47,821,000 bushels, largely hedges.

ST. LOUIS CASH GRAIN.

COTTON FUTURES SPURT ON HIGHER TEXTILE PRICES

NEW YORK, July 3 (AP).—OPA advance in textile cotton ceilings brought a sharp rally of more than $1.50 a bale in cotton prices today but more than half the gains were lost on profit taking and liquidation, reflecting continued confusion over effects of the amended price control legislation. Erratic price movements were influenced by a thin market due to the holiday. All months reached new seasonal peaks on early advances.

Late afternoon prices were 30 to 75 cents a bale higher. July 22.05, Oct. 21.41 and Dec. 21.27.

Futures closed 45 to 85 cents a bale higher.

LOWER STEEL RATE THIS WEEK

NEW YORK, July 3 (AP).—The nation's steel mills will operate at 94.3 per cent of capacity this week, compared with 95.7 per cent a week earlier, the American Iron and Steel Institute reported today.

This week's operations—which will be affected by the July 4 holiday and partly because of a strike around the Pittsburgh area—will result in 1,689,200 tons of steel being turned out against 1,714,300 in the preceding week.

Last month operations were at 97.8 per cent of capacity, or 1,751,900 tons, and a year ago the percentage was 96 and tonnage 1,672,800.

Guns Stop to Let Eight Captive Nazi Nurses Return to Germans

Women Taken in Cherbourg Sector Permitted to Cross Back to Enemy Lines—Firing Resumed Shortly Afterward.

By DON WHITEHEAD

WITH AMERICAN FORCES AT BALLEROY, France, July 3 (AP).—One of the strangest battlefield scenes in all the invasion of France occurred yesterday in no-man's-land near here when eight German nurses captured in Cherbourg were returned to the enemy lines.

For 30 minutes the guns stopped roaring, snipers held their fire and the mortars were silent while two ambulances and a jeep rolled down the lonely road between the lines. A few hundred yards beyond Caumont the procession stopped and Capt. Quentin Roosevelt, son of Brig. Gen. Theodore Roosevelt, and Capt. Fred Ghercke stepped out.

They were met by two German officers who had a party of enlisted men well to their rear. The enemy officers saluted stiffly.

One said in English, "It's a very hot day, isn't it?"

"Yes, it is," Capt. Roosevelt answered.

And then the German nurses climbed from the ambulance and walked down the road to the German lines. The German officers saluted formally, wheeled and walked away.

A few minutes later the guns began booming again.

No Effort at Exchange.

So far as is known here, this is the first time in World War II where German women have been returned to the enemy. There was no effort at an exchange because the Germans never have captured any American nurses.

This was not an act of chivalry on the patr of the Americans. As a matter of fact the army was glad to be rid of the eight women, who would be only a minor nuisance if held and no one saw any reason why they should be detained since they were non-combatants.

They were captured in an enemy hospital at Cherbourg, but as soon as the Americans were able to handle the enemy wounded they were brought to a rear area and negotiations were started to get them back to their own people.

They ranged in age from 30 to 58. The eldest nurse was a veteran of the First World War when she served in Russia, Bulgaria, France and other fronts.

Tearfully Happy Over Release.

Most of them were tearfully happy when informed they would not be held prisoner but would be returned to their own lines.

They stayed in an American hospital commanded by Col. Richard Johnson of Chicago, and were under the supervision of Maj. Esther McCafferty of Wilmington, Del.

They were given American cigarettes and food and were shown about the hospital which caused one of them to exclaim:

"Mein Gott, did you bring all this with you?"

I saw them near the front when they were given a rest while waiting for negotiations to be completed for their transfer. One 30-year-old woman with streaked blonde hair, a broad forehead and a square jaw, could speak English.

She had been in England to learn the language. Her name was Herta Wist and she was from Karlsruhe. Her husband, a Marine captain, had been captured in the arsenal at Cherbourg. Before becoming a nurse a few weeks ago she entertained German soldiers as a pianist.

She wore silk stockings with a run in them. On her white jacket was a ribbon given for meritorious service.

Eager to Return to Reich.

"Do you want to go back to Germany?" I asked her.

"Oh, yes, yes, I want to go back. After all, I am a German," she said.

"When do you think the war will be over?" I asked.

"I hope the war will be over very soon," she answered.

"You hope it?'

"I hope it."

"Wouldn't you feel safer in England than in Germany?"

She shrugged. "Everybody would rather be home."

She said everyone in Germany talked of the war and the bombings and were tired of fighting.

"They hope the war will be finished soon in Germany and also in France," the nurse said.

"Do you think Germany will win?"

She shrugged again. "I don't know."

4 MORE ST. LOUISANS SHOWN TO HAVE BEEN IN INVASION

Information that four more men from St. Louis took part in the invasion has been received in V-mail letters to the Post-Dispatch, in a dispatch from the Eighth Air Force in England and in a letter to one man's parents.

The letters were from Lt. (jg) William D. Henderson Jr., husband of Mrs. Margaret Henderson of 6645 University drive, and Chief Machinist's Mate Kenneth L. Kern, son of Henry Kern Jr., 4100 Virginia avenue. The dispatch concerned Sgt. William G. Helbling, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Helbling, 2919 Hampton avenue, while Motor Machinist's Mate Frank H. Williams notified his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Williams, 4915 Gresham street, that he was safe and well as of June 15.

Henderson, Kern and Williams said they had seen previous action in the Mediterranean. Helbling, the message said, participated in bombing support of landings in France, flying as a radio operator on a B-24 Liberator bomber.

EIGHTH DISTRICT INDUSTRIAL CONTRACTION SLOWER IN MAY

The donward trend in industrial activity in the Eighth Federal Reserve District was not so sharp in May, but this is not viewed as indicating that production will reverse the trend of the last nine months and turn upward soon, the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis reported today in its monthly review of business conditions.

War activity in the seven-state district is concentrated in programs scheduled for gradual contraction rather than expansion, and gains in such fields as production of tanks, chemicals, electrical apparatus and ship plates will not offset curtailment in manufacture of small arms ammunition and explosives, the report stated.

In St. Louis, large munitions producers last May employed 30,000 fewer workers than nine months earlier, when the city's war output was at its peak.

Flashes of Life

By the Associated Press.

Four Runs, One Error.

PHILADELPHIA — A veteran watchman who has been punching time clocks for years was startled to hear four fire trucks clatter to a stop just as he finished his rounds at the Philadelphia transportation car barns today.

There wasn't any fire; the watchman said he must have punched a fire alarm box absentmindedly.

Name Longer Than Car.

MEXICO CITY—It isn't the jeep any more, at least officially. The Mexico Defense Ministry has announced austerely that hereafter it must be referred to as a "light one-quarter-ton exploration car."

Up on the Rooftop.

PHOENIX, Ariz. — A two-passenger private plane undershot the airport, but the pilot, James Taylor, 58-year-old amateur flyer, managed such a successful landing his only injury was a cut lip. He landed on the hangar roof.

ROOSEVELT APPROVES LAW BROADENING HEALTH SERVICE

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP).—President Roosevelt today approved legislation broadening the scope of the United States Public Health Service and in a accompanying statement commended the department for "its excellent record in protecting the health of the nation."

The act authorizes Federal grants for research to nongovernment institutions, allows bigger appropriations to aid State public health work and provides commissions for public health nurses. In addition the legislation would establish a national tuberculosis program.

"Since adequate public health facilities must be organized on a nationwide scale," President Roosevelt said, "it is proper that the Federal Government should exercise responsibility of leadership and assistance to the States."

REDS SAY FINNS STILL HAVE CHANCE FOR TERMS

MOSCOW, July 3 (AP).—It appeared today that Russia had not closed the door to a peace offer from the Finns, despite their decision to continue the war with German aid. An article in Pravda, official Communist Party organ, said the Finns had the alternative of sharing the consequences of "a lost war with Germany, or to ask the Soviet Union for peace."

"This does not mean that complete capitulation is demanded of Finland," the article added. Finnish Premier Edwin Linkomies, however, declared in a broadcast that it is "Finland's duty not to lay down arms without the consent of Germany."

Stockholm reports lacking official confirmation said German troops had begun to occupy the Aland islands, strategic stepping stones across the mouth of the Gulf of Bothnia, between Finland and Sweden.

Here and There on The Hollywood Lots

By Sidney Skolsky

HOLLYWOOD.

JUDY GARLAND'S latest is Peter Lawford, who has certainly been getting around. . . . Though the official announcement didn't say a word about it, Buddy De Sylva's new deal at Paramount gives him first call on all talent and material. . . . Richard Whorf is going to turn director, something which he always wanted; his initial assignment is a comedy at Metro called "Autumn Fever." . . . Lana Turner, Lucille Ball, Gene Kelly and Keenan Wynn will be in "Early to Wed." . . . Harry James, who is looking for his own nightery, has put in a bid for the Casa Manana in Culver City. . . . Jeanne Crain and Lon McAllister have found each other. . . . Mary Pickford has purchased a play and is considering appearing in it herself on Broadway. . . . Lana Turner sent one of her sweaters to a girl in Detroit who won a bond-selling contest. Tom Jenk says that if the sweater fits, the studio will probably send her a ticket to Hollywood.

JUDY GARLAND

LT. BILL ORR and Shelia Ryan are vooming. . . . Constance Bennett is reading Rowland Brown's new play, "Mike's Girl," as a possible vehicle for herself for a Broadway show. . . . Metro is negotiating for Louis Bromfield's novel, "What became of Anna Bolton?" for Greer Garson. . . . Cpl. Clarence Stroud, now in "Winged Victory," described the studio to a friend in this manner: "Twentieth Century-Fox is a body of land entirely surrounded by Darryl Zanuck." . . . David Selznick sneak previewed "Since You Went Away," and a credit slide reads: "Written by the Producer." Polly James, a member of the Screen Writers' Guild, wants it to read: "Produced by the Writer."

ANN RUTHERFORD is getting out of her Twentieth Century-Fox contract and will soon be a free agent. . . . Mae West, Mike Todd and Harry Goetz are cooking a picture deal for the screen version of "Catherine Was Great." . . . Hal Wallis is going to put France Reid, from Broadway, under personal contract. . . . Warners have just signed the nephew of the Lord Mayor of Liverpool. His name is John Sheridan. . . . Red Skelton is now a private at Camp Roberts and is in the field artillery. . . . Dorothy Scott, whose ex-husband, Adrian Scott, is a producer at RKO, is being considered for pictures at Metro. . . . Jimmy Starr will soon have another mystery novel at his publishers. It is called, "Three Short Biers." . . . Frances Rafferty and Steve Brodie, who are playing in "Lighter Than Air," appear to be very interested in each other. . . . Percy Kilbride, when he completes his role in "Guest in the House," moves over to Paramount to add some laughs to "Kitty." . . . Priscilla Lane has been visiting over at Warners and it appears likely that she will be returning to pictures. . . . Arthur Murray saw this sign in the window of a Hollywood restaurant: "Can you dish it out? We need cooks and waitresses."

MARLENE DIETRICH brought back a coral necklace for Maria Montez from Italy, the gift of Jean Pierre Aumont. . . . K. T. Stevens and Alan Curtis are vooming. . . . Sonja Henie is telling friends that she would like to do a picture about Charlotte, the famous Hippodrome ice skater. . . . Word comes from England that Anna Neagle is touring the provinces in a stage adaptation of Jane Austin's "Emma," and that she will follow her London appearance in the show with a film version which Herbert Wilcox will make in technicolor. . . . Ricardo Lopez, outstanding poet of Latin America, is in town to do the Spanish commentary for Billy Wilder's "Double Indemnity." . . . George White's favorite these nights is the very pretty Paramount contract actress, Audrey Young.

AL JOLSON, accompanied by Harry Akst, is on a bond-selling tour. . . . There is a cartoon in Colliers of an actress standing outside camera range on the set and she appears to be telling off everyone. The director, looking quite annoyed, says, "Miss Latour, when you're through acting, we'll start working." . . . A group of Metro executives were very enthusiastic about "Song of Norway," the operetta at the Philharmonic, and one said, "If we can't buy the play before they take it to Broadway, we ought to sign Charles K. Freeman, who staged and directed it. He shows talent." Charles K. Freeman has been sitting in an office at Metro waiting for a chance to direct. While he was waiting, he directed this play.

BROADWAY

By WALTER WINCHELL

Things I Didn't Know About Woodrow Wilson

HE took tap dancing lessons when he was Governor of New Jersey and he frequently practiced when he occupied the White House. He fancied himself as a singer and when guests were present he would frequently give his daughter, Margaret, the nod and she would immediately start to play the piano. His favorite songs were the favorite songs of the day. One of his intimate friends said, "I am sure that if he had a choice he would give up the presidency to be Eddie Leonard."

THE ONLY TIME he ever lost his temper publicly and berated the press was when certain reporters sniped at his romance with Mrs. Galt. At that time he threatened to beat up a certain reporter. On the subject of newspaper criticism he said: "In my position I must expect criticism. I hope that criticism will be constructive, but whether or not it is constructive, I would sooner have it malicious than have no criticism at all."

WILSON WAS credited with the largest vocabulary of any man who lived. His extemporaneous speeches (when taken down in shorthand over a period of eight years in the White House) revealed that his impromptu vocabulary was twice the size of Shakespeare's works. . . . He was one of the few public figures who did not employ a ghost-writer. He did the typing himself (on his own typewriter) of every message he wrote. The Declaration of War was typed and re-typed by Wilson himself.

HE ONCE CALLED Clemenceau a thief, and Clemenceau called him worse in a head-on clash at the Hotel Crillon, Paris. . . . During negotiations in Paris, Wilson said: "There are many sinister influences working here, but none more sinister than those desiring social prestige." . . . Among other famous quotations, he said: "Only I have failed—the cause has not." . . . "It is not right to do wrong, even to make peace." . . . The gossip-mongers of the day anticipated that Mrs. Woodrow Wilson (the second wife) would manage somehow to drift away from the President after he had been stricken. But his needs in his darkest hours multiplied her devotion to him.

WOODROW WILSON believed in the people. He believed that right was might. He believed in the righteousnes of right. He died as a war casualty on the battlefield of peace. . . . When he was a freshman in the University of Virginia he had cards printed "Senator Thomas Woodrow Wilson" and passed them out freely to his classmates. Shortly after he dropped the Thomas from his name completely. The exact reasons for dropping the Thomas are unknown, but many thought it was because he desired to reduce his name to 13 letters.

THERE ARE MORE boulevards, streets and squares named for him in Europe than for all other Americans combined. The Identification Bureau of the Nazi Gestapo is located at Number 18 Rue President Wilson in Paris. . . . The persistent legend that the trustees of Princeton University were so anxious to get rid of him as president of the college that they schemed with Senator Smith to lure him into politics and off the campus has never been substantiated. It was Senator Smith's own idea although quite true that Princeton Trustees had had more than their fill of him. When Smith first approached Wilson with the idea of running for Governor of New Jersey, Wilson with his keen sense of humor replied, "How can you possibly elect me to anything? I'm a school teacher, and in the eyes of most people that makes me something of an idiot."

OVERR 30 POPULAR songs were written and published about him, yet none of them achieved any lasting popularity. He was the idol of show people, and when he died in 1924 theatrical troupes all over the country held special services back-stage. At the Palace Theater the cast and the audience rose to sing "Nearer My God to Thee," and the performance was ended at the conclusion.

CASE RECORDS

By Dr. George W. Crane

CASE C-285: Willard Horsman, aged probably 35, is assistant circulation manager of a livewire newspaper. "I am somewhat late in commenting on the favorable impression you gained with our circulation department by your recent Case Record telling how your two older sons were carrying newspaper routes," he wrote me not long ago. We feel that anything which we do to help promote the welfare of boys through gainful work, such as carrying newspapers, should be a continual program. Your article was fine, and we encourage you to refer to it frequently in these times when a lot of unstable emotions are ruling the minds of many boys and girls. Here at the paper we have been running a series of advertisements each Sunday, showing the good that a boy can obtain from carrying a newspaper route. I'm enclosing a few samples used the past few weeks."

MR. HORSMAN is correct in saying that a boy obtains much valuable experience from carrying a newspaper route. Many of our famous Americans were newsboys in their childhood. Such work not only teaches a lad to be punctual and diligent in adherence to duty, but it likewise gives him an invaluable opportunity to learn human nature. Indeed, many a newsboy is a better practicing psychologist than some of our college professors of that subject. A newsboy meets people who are kind and jolly, but he likewise encounters those who have a sourpuss face and a dyspeptic disposition.

A NEWSBOY thus learns a variety of human personalities, and gradually acquires the knack of getting along successfully with them. This training in meeting and favorably motivatnig human beings, is not equaled by any high school or college course. In the schools we have too long dealt with theories. When our college graduates receive their diplomas, thousands of them don't understand human nature. Your son can insure his future success by thus carrying a newspaper route and learning Applied Psychology as an extra-curricular subject while he is in grammar or high school. Meanwhile, too, he will be making good money. It is proper that children work for their money, since earned money 's valued more highly and more carefully budgeted than "gift" money. Too many of our current wasteful politicians who are throwing away our taxes like confetti on New Year's Eve, would not be so juvenile if they had carried newspaper routes in childhood.

CHARACTER IS NOT built by studying textbooks, just as the art of swimming is likewise never acquired from books. In both cases you must get into actual contact with life's situations and then practice the correct motions or behavior till success crowns your efforts. A newsboy works under supervision. If he is careless, his error is soon pointed out to him, for an irate subscriber will telephone that his paper wasn't delivered, or was thrown into the side yard where it blew away or was rained on and if he breaks a window, he must pay for it. Many newsboys collect from their clients and must keep business records. They thus learn salesmanship and bookkeeping, honesty and diligence to duty, in addition to Applied Psychology.

How It Started

By Jean Newton

To Die in Harness.

Dying in harness meant originally being killed on the battlefield, attired in the habiliments of the mounted soldier. In time it lost its military connotation and came to signify continuing to work until the end. But now the expression is again significant in its first sense, with the "harness" the working clothes of the soldier and his war horse—or his tank!

The story of the word "harness" weaves it all into one pattern. "Harness" is from the old English harneis, of Celtic origin, meaning "old iron, armor"! What more natural than "to die in harness" for the expiration of man or steed clad in mail—for in "the good old days," as now, war was always with us!

Tossed Spinach Salad

One cup fresh spinach, shredded; one cup lettuce, shredded; three-fourths cup shredded raw carrots; one-fourth cup diced celery; six radishes. sliced; one-fourth cup sliced green onion; one-fourth cup French dressing.

Rub bowl with a clove of garlic (do not let garlic remain in bowl). Put all vegetables together in the bowl and just before serving add French dressing and toss until well mixed.

Dates were raised on the banks of the Euphrates more than 4000 years ago.

Vegetable Varieties

By Charlotte Adams

VEGETABLE MUSHROOM SHORTCAKE: AN EXCELLENT SUBSTITUTE FOR MEAT.

ANYBODY who complains this summer about not being able to get as much meat as her family would like is a woman of little imagination—a woman, in fact, who fails to recognize good things right under her nose! For years we've eaten more meat than was nutritionally necessary.

Vegetable dinners? Why not, please? If you plan them with an eye to appearance, with an eye to their filling qualities, and a thought to their nutritional balance, you'll get very little complaint out of your families.

Mushrooms make up for lack of meat in a meal—flavorwise and in appearance, though not nutritionally. There are other ways to get your protein, though. I'm not saying you need to have vegetable dinners every day! Try this summer dish, with a green salad and some good hunks of French bread:

Vegetable-Mushroom Shortcake.

Two cups flour, three teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon onion salt, three tablespoons fortified margarine, one-half cup minced watercress, one tablespoon fortified margarine, melted, three-fourths cup milk (approximate).

Sift together flour, baking powder, onion salt. Add watercress. Cut in the three tablespoons of margarine until it looks like peas through the dry ingredients. Add milk sufficient to make a soft but not sticky dough. Roll out on floured board to one-fourth inch thickness. Cut 12 rounds. Brush tops with melted margarine. Put together in pairs and bake in hot oven (400 degrees) 20-25 minutes. Over the hot shortcakes and between the layers serve the mushroom-vegetable sauce. Sprinkle a bit of paprika over the top of each. Garnish the platter with fresh watercress. Serves six.

Mushroom Vegetable Sauce.

One cup mushrooms, fresh or canned, sliced; four tablespoons fortified margarine; three tablespoons flour; one cup milk; one-half pound snap beans; two carrots; one teaspoon salt.

If mushrooms are canned, drain and reserve liquid. If they are fresh, wash and slice them. Cut beans into matchstick pieces and cook. Cut carrots into thin slices and cook separately. Keep beans and carrots warm until sauce is made. Brown mushrooms in margarine. Remove mushrooms. Add flour to mushroom drippings. Mix to a smooth paste. Add milk and canned mushroom liquor, if that's the kind you're using. Stir until creamy. Add salt. Add mushrooms, beans and carrots. Serve as directed above.

A little cheese goes a long way in dressing up a vegetable meal and adding protein value. Serve it with breadcrumbs over a baked vegetable dish.

Bacon adds snap to a vegetable meal, too. Fry it crisp and brown and use it as a garnish on a beautifully arranged vegetable plate. Or bake eggplant slices with strips of bacon across top.

Your Stars -o- By Marion Drew

WHAT TO EXPECT TOMORROW.
Sun in Cancer.

General Tendencies — Too bad that we have no more fireworks, for this day's celebration would be exactly in harmony with them. It is lively, explosive and noisy, and any meetings, entertainments or sports are apt to show these qualities. The evening hours will be much less active than the daylight period, tending toward pessimism and showing obstacles. This is late in the evening, however. You can go to sleep and feel that you miss very little.

If Tomorrow Is Your Birthday.

Should you celebrate upon the national birthday you can expect some of the same events in your private life which will be noticed in public. These will be strong in regard to travel, adventure and expense, but less favorable for foodstuffs and clothes. You should be able to avoid difficulties in next December now that you receive a hint that they are present.

Tomorrow's Watchword.

The Zodiac points to a degree important to mathematics and professions like accountancy tomorrow. It is a shame that so few people learn arithmetic in a practical manner for, truly, it is one of the most valuable branches of learning and not difficult when you settle down to it. It is amazing how little most women think about accounts and numbers, but I seldom say that I did not learn either until I was well past school-day age.

WHAT TO EXPECT WEDNESDAY
Sun in Cancer.

General Tendencies—Here is the day of the full moon, always beautiful but not such a handsome aspect in a daily horoscope. The full moon is at its best; it diminishes thereafter for two weeks, consequently old teachers say that enterprises begun on the day when the moon is full do not expand and may disappoint because of their lessening power. With the moon in the sign Capricorn, as Wednesday, I'd be inclined to listen to this.

If Wednesday Is Your Birthday.

Very contradictory conditions confront you through the last of 1944 and the first half of 1945. You probably will find that finances will be good, but growing expenses may cut down your average. Friends will be stanch but may be at a distance, while others zig-zag indications follow almost all your interests. August and next March seem high spots in the year.

Wednesday's Watchword.

Emphasis at this time is laid upon the idea of economy. I think I know the meaning of that word but I cannot say that I like it. However, I learned that to know all was to forgive all, so maybe I do not really understand the merits of true economy. It always seems inconvenient, although a later lack of money is inconvenient, too. Ah, well, it's a hard world let's admit; that economy makes it easier.

My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Martha Carr:

FOR two years I have been living with my own guilty conscience. I am in an awkward situation and don't know how to correct it. During all my school years, grade school through college, I had only one close girl friend, but many casual ones. Two years ago arrangements for my wedding were being made and my close friend invited all the girls we'd known to a shower. At the time I told them they were all invited to the wedding, that it was to be practically an open wedding, and I hoped to see them all, and would probably send out invitations. I planned to send invitations to them and to my parents' closest friends. But there was a mix-up. Mother thought I'd sent the girls' invitations, I thought she had sent them, so they weren't sent at all. I didn't discover this for nine months, at which time one of the girls failed to speak to me on the street when I made a visit to my home town, which is a thousand miles away. I will probably never see most of these girls again but I am so upset to have hurt anyone, and it seems such a pity such a situation should have had to arise. Mother says I should just forget it, but I can't. What can I do?

GUILTY CONSCIENCE.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest, but of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

I am afraid there isn't much you can do about the matter now. Normally your mother would have heard rumors through your best friend, and could have corrected things, but the time is now past. Other than telling the special friend the circumstances and asking her to pass the word around, there is nothing to be done now. The matter will die down and be forgotten as such things are, eventually. Try to forget what was an unfortunate accident and set about making new friends in your new environment.

IN ANSWER TO "Just Wondering": If you are so irresistably alluring that all the boys must kiss you, practically on sight, you must learn a little finesse to make them act differently. Think how unbecoming it is and how much energy it will take to go around every evening slapping faces! My "What About the Petting Question" will give you some suggestions on dealing with this problem. For the conduct on dates send for my "Sub-deb" leaflet. These, together with the "Popularity Hints" you asked for, I will mail you when you send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

IN ANSWER TO "Flower Gardener": You needn't be so ashamed of growing roses along with the victory garden products. One can't eat 'em of course, but one must admit they have their place. You sent neither your complete address nor the necessary stamped, self-addressed envelope so I am waiting for them in order to mail you my Rose Jar leaflet. Thanks for telling me of the charming name you picked from my "Names for Boys and Girls."

Servant-less Dinner

By Emily Post

SINCE the service problem of the hostess who is also her own cook and waitress is that of the great majority of women, the following letter should be of general interest: "To what limits may service in a house without any service, be simplified at a 'company' dinner for four guests; six in all at table, to make it possible for the hostess to remain seated? I have read your Mrs. 3-in-1 chapter in your book and I have not—and cannot get a 'hot-box' or any other paraphernalia."

In answer, the only paraphernalia that is really essential would be two small but sturdy tables with two shelves below the top so as to give you plenty of space to put things on. One of these to stand next to you at the table; and the other next to your husband.

COURSES HAVING been reduced to a minimum number, you eliminate your first course at the table and serve vegetable and fruit juice cocktails, and perhaps others, in your living room; and in this case the canapes should be substantial. After staying a few minutes with your guests, you leave them to your husband and go out into the kitchen to take care of last minute details, which include: Pouring ice water and putting butter at each plate. (Bread and condiments and any ornamental sweets should have been put on the table earlier. Places should have been set with all the silver necessary, and napkins, but no service plates.)

Whether your first course is a casserole dish or a substantial roast, it is put down in front of your husband's place with a stack of hot plates at his place. Two vegetable dishes may be put on each side of the table, to be passed from one to another, if you prefer that way; but it would perhaps cause less confusion to have your husband serve the vegetables at the same time as the meat.

Dinner is then ready to be served.

AT THE END of the meat course, your husband removes the platter to the lowest shelf of his little table, one of the vegetable dishes next to it and one on the middle shelf, as well as the pates nearest to him. You take the two plates next to you. Salads should be arranged in a bowl or on a platter. This is pretty to look at. It can be standing on top of your table to be served by you, or it could equally well be put on your husband's table. And the dessert also on your husband's table.

This course is then removed and the dessert served by you (or by your husband if you serve the salad). Crumbing of the table necessarily has to be dispensed with—possibly also finger bowls. These, however, could perfectly well be in one stack of three on your husband's table. By stack is meant a plate and on the plate a finger bowl and repeat this in a layer of three.

WHEN THE GUESTS return to the living room, you go out into the kitchen and add the coffee, which has been "dripping" during dinner, to the tray. Also add the cream to the previously prepared cups, saucers, spoons and sugar. Carry the tray into the living room and put it down on your coffee table—or wherever most convenient for you to sit and pour.

When you return the tray to the kitchen, you can then put away "spoilable" food.

Fireworks Casualties Minimized

By Logan Clendening, M.D.

ON the Fourth of July, 1943, for the first time since statistics began to be recorded, there was not one death in the United States from fireworks. Firewater instead of fireworks got in its work and there were some 300 deaths from traffic accidents and the usual holiday quota of drownings.

But the fireworks record is something to celebrate. It shows once more that the world does move, no matter how slowly it seems to be doing it to the fellow who is interested in immediate progress. It also proves the effectiveness of public propaganda so long as its cause is right and the pressure is unrelentingly kept up.

The propaganda which resulted in the 1943 record has been of two kinds. One was the campaign of the American Medical Association against tetanus, or lockjaw, as a result of Fourth of July injuries and the other was against the use of fireworks at all.

I do not believe the American Medical Association had any hope 40 years ago that they could abolish fireworks and toy cannons and all the rest of the paraphernalia of injury which signalized the joy at our separation from England which characterized the scenes of my boyhood, but even that has been very largely accomplished.

ABOUT THE antitetanus campaign, we have definite figures. It was in 1903 that the Journal of the American Medical Association began a vigorous crusading to demand the immediate use of antitetanus serum due to the explosion of firearms, cannons, firecrackers, etc. The emphasis was placed on the fact that any wound which had the slightest chance of being contaminated with street or ground dirt is potentially liable to result in lockjaw and the only way to prevent it is to give antitetanus serum promptly.

Here is the result of this project of public education:

In 1903 there were 4449 injuries and 406 deaths from tetanus.

In 1904 there were 4169 injuries and 87 deaths from tetanus.

There was not much change in the record until 1909 when there was a jump to 5307 injuries and 125 deaths from tetanus. This ghastly toll stimulated both the antitetanus and anti-fireworks campaign so that:

In 1914 there were 1506 injuries and 3 deaths from tetanus.

Since then the improvement has been steady until, as recorded in the opening sentence of this article, we have in 1943 no deaths from fireworks injuries either caused by tetanus or otherwise.

OF COURSE PART of this good result so far as tetanus is concerned is due to the disappearance of the horse from our streets. The tetanus bacillus thrives in the intestines of herbivorous animals and street dirt was naturally more heavily contaminated in 1903 than now.

Still a very recent study of the occurrence of tetanus spores on the streets and pavements of Baltimore showed that 17 per cent of the cultures were positive. And no fair-minded person with a memory as long as mine of the glorious Fourths of the gay nineties down to the recent past can deny that the good results of last year are largely due to the "safe and sane Fourth" slogan.

What will happen this year is a matter of hope rather than prediction. The only way to preserve the gains of a successful campaign is to keep up with the good methods. If by any chance anybody in your family is injured this Fourth by gunshot wound or firecracker or fireworks of any kind insist on having a doctor in an emergency rush and insist that a prophylactic injection of 1500 units of antitetanus serum be given. The only exception to this is if a previous immunizing dose has been given. In that case severe allergic reactions are likely to follow the use of prophylactic antitetanus serum.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

W. F. P.: What is the approximate caloric value of a medium sized orange?

Answer: An average orange weighing about 250 grams, or 7 ounces, has about 95 calories.

A. A. A.: Please settle an argument. A. claims an adult need not fear contracting tuberculosis, unless he had it as a child. B. claims an adult can get tuberculosis as easily as a child. Which is correct?

Answer: Practically every case of tuberculosis begins in childhood. It may come to light and produce symptoms only in adult life. A very few instances have been proved where an adult is exposed constantly to tuberculosis infection such as a nurse or interne in a tuberculosis hospital acquiring it in adult life.

A. H.: Could you tell me, please, if wax injections in a flabby breast are all right, or if they become cancerous in time?

Answer: For heaven's sake do not allow any one to inject wax in the breast or any where else under the skin. They may not become cancerous, but they produce large painful inflammations and often ulcerate out leaving a painful fistulous tract.

My Neighbor Says:

You will find it helpful, especially during the summer months, to plan a week's menus at one time. This will enable you to do most of your shopping on one day and eliminate many unnecessary trips to market. Be sure to include plenty of the "Basic 7" foods in your menus.

Tobacco was once used by Indians in middle America as a medicine and as incense in religious ceremonies.

Laughed Himself Into a Fortune

Harrold Jose de Faria, Alias Hal Peary, Alias Gildersleeve, Is Still Laughing.

By Harold Heffernan

HOLLYWOOD.

IN the case of many top stars who divide their time and popularity between screen and radio, it's a question of which came first, the chicken or the egg. One medium rolls up enthusiastic followings for the other, as witness the cases of Jack Benny and Bob Hope.

On the other hand, there are a few famous entertainment names today who owe their current screen success to the popularity momentum of radio alone. For instance, Fibber McGee and Molly and "The Great Gildersleeve" wouldn't be worth a plugged dime at any box office today if they hadn't first put themselves over via the air waves.

RKO's use of the Gallup Poll shows that Gildersleeve—an early flop in pictures—is today a greater attraction on the screen by 100 per cent than he was one year ago. And the poll further shows that a top radio rating turned the trick.

That's coming up pretty fast and that's why we went out to see the 210-pound screen and radio favorite who converted an embarrassed, ingratiating guffaw into something that will keep the wolf from howling the rest of his life. The Great Gildersleeve is actually Harrold Jose Periera De Faria, Americanized to plain Harold Peary.

"A NEWSPAPER man, eh?" said Harold Jose. "Why, I used to be a newspaper man myself. I sang with the Oakland Tribune Juveniles."

And Harold Jose laughed; a great, hearty, baritone belly-laugh. His big bay window rippled like a bowl of jelly.

"Honest, I like to laugh," he explained. "It's the Portuguese in me. Those Portuguese ancestors of mine were a singing, laughing lot. Lord love 'em all; they gave me a rich gift."

And they did, most assuredly, for at this writing "Gildy," as he likes his chums to hail him, has just finished his fourth movie, "Gildersleeve's Ghost," and he has a radio program listed among the first 10 on the air—with a Hooper rating of 11 million listeners. And his monetary rewards are in proportion.

Gildy explained that he didn't reach this pinnacle of prosperity in one mad leap from nowhere. He started earning his own living at the age of 13, has spent 23 of his 36 years laboring toward his present healthy position. He has sacrificed not a little, most of all a formerly svelte figure.

HAROLD (THE GREAT GILDERSLEEVE) PEARY

"I'm only 5 feet 9 inches," he mourned, tackling a robust lunch of ham and eggs, potatoes and salad on the side. "But look at my shape. I'm a full 50 pounds overweight. What can I do about it? Nothing, chum. Absolutely nothing. My audiences demand that I be fat, and I dassent disagree."

The seafaring ancestors of Gildy were among the early settlers of California, having dropped anchor in 1847. Gildy was born in San Leandro, Cal., later moving with folks to Oakland.

"As a kid I sang in the Catholic church," he sketched the trail. "When I was 13, I began singing with the Juveniles in a show sponsored by the Oakland Tribune. That got me all hopped up about a stage career, so I made up a name, Harold Peary, from my first and third names and startled warbling over the radio. Musical comedy, stock and road shows follows. Soon I found myself in demand as a villain. That's the way that laugh started—in a villainous rumble.

"There was one year when I appeared on 17 different air shows using 38 dialects, including Chinese and Serbian. But I'll be a sunufagun if I wasn't a villain in all of em. In 1937, I signed with Fibber McGee and Molly—yes, as a villain. But I got my break at last. We were making a personal appearance in Chicago in connection with the radio program. I had an exit after one scene and hadn't realized the stage was so wide. I suddenly found myself out of line, with a long walk ahead. To fill in, I revived a melodramatic laugh I had used in shows years before.

"Well, little chum, I was astounded when that laugh stopped the show. So Fibber and Molly decided to modify the laugh a little and put it into the radio program."

From that laugh, the entire Gildersleeve performance was fashioned. Its infectious humor spread and spread some more. Fans were imitating it, writing in about it. And so Gildy was on his way to laughing himself into a fortune. Gildy began using it to register any needed emotion—chagrin, uneasiness, derision and even lovesickness.

IT WENT over so big that Gildy was able to quit Fibber and Molly and launch his own radio program, "The Great Gildersleeve." And that laugh echoed back to the movie studio and brought him his first crack at the celluloid medium.

Gildy, a great showman by instinct, has some pretty positive views concerning the cash value of comedy.

"Benjamin Franklin once said," he elucidated, "that 'a laugh is worth a hundred groans in any market.' Well, he could have substituted the word 'dollars' for 'groans' and the statement would have been equally true.

"So far as the movies go, most people think of comedy pictures as a light form of divertissement, scattered between heavier dramas, to brighten our picture diet. Yet, for most studios, it's the belly laugh that piles up the greatest grosses.

"Radio is the medium, though, more than any other, in which the laugh assumes precious value. You're thinking, I suppose, of the fabulous salaries paid to radio comedians, and I admit it's fine to handle a fat salary until Uncle Sam crooks his finger on March 15. But radio, boiled down, is only the neon light over the marquee of the most gigantic business in this country—advertising.

"That's where Wall Street gets into the entertainment field and acts as straight man for the comedian. The laugh becomes the attraction that causes several million people to listen to several minutes of commercials. About 80 per cent of the top radio shows are comedy programs."

And Gildy doesn't care about laughing that off.

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

ALL declarer had to do in this deal was to count up to nine, but even in simple arithmetic there is a right and a wrong process.

South, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

	♠ 652 ♥ K10 ♦ 10973 ♣ Q862
♠ QJ108 ♥ J7 ♦ Q84 ♣ 10753	NORTH WEST EAST SOUTH	♠ K84 ♥ Q95432 ♦ 82 ♣ J9
	♠ A73 ♥ A86 ♦ AKJ5 ♣ AK4

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 no trump	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

West opened the spade queen and East signalled encouragement with the eight. Declarer held up his ace until the third round of spades, then cashed the top clubs in his own hand and led a third round to the club queen. As he later explained to his highly disgruntled partner, a three-three club break would have given him four tricks in the suit, and these, with one spade, two top hearts, and two top diamonds, would have put the contract on ice and made a successful diamond finesse unnecessary. Unfortunately, clubs refused to break perfectly, and now when declarer fell back on the diamond finesse, that too, let him down. As a consequence West could cash another spade trick and the club ten that had been so kindly established for him. Down one!

The first three tricks told declarer that spades had broken three-three, which meant that only three tricks could be lost in that suit. That being so, it should not have been difficult to knock out the diamond queen, in one way or another, so that three diamond tricks, three clubs, two hearts, and one spade could be gathered in against any possible vicissitude.

Icebox Fudge Cookies

Two squares chocolate, shaved, one cup evaporated milk, two cups sugar, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one tablespoon margarine, one teaspon vanilla, 24 marshmallows cut in quarters, three cups graham cracker crumbs, one cup chopped nuts.

Combine chocolate and evaporated milk and heat over low flame until chocolate is melted. Add sugar and salt and stir until dissolved. Cook mixture until a drop forms a very soft ball in cold water (or to 228 degrees on a candy thermometer) and remove from heat. Add margarine. Cool slightly and add vanilla, marshmallows, graham cracker crumbs and nuts. Mix well and press in well-greased shallow pans. Chill in refrigerator eight to 12 hours or overnight and cut in squares. Makes approximately four dozen.

My Day -o- By Eleanor Roosevelt

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Sunday.

I WANT to mention a special election issue which I received in June from the New York League of Women voters. It is their "Monthly News" sheet, and it gives a great deal of information which is valuable to the people of New York State in an election year. I imagine that nationally, the league is giving similar information to its members in every state.

With my little Monthly News came a single sheet in which the essentials for the political party platforms on foreign policy were printed, and while these are very general, they embody the minimum of what we should expect in our foreign policy planks. Finally, a sheet was enclosed with cartoons depicting the importance of taking part in the nominating primaries, because so often we find ourselves faced with the fact that we do not like the nominees of either party. But because we have taken no interest before election day, we decide that, bad as the choice may be, we will vote with our traditional party. That seems to me to be the best way of getting an unrepresentative form of government.

Next, I want to speak of something which has been done in Kansas. They have made a survey recently of their areas where libraries are lacking, and then they sent a travelling book exhibit around. In one county they circulated books to the various rural schools for a long time, but this travelling exhibit created excitement everywhere in cities and rural areas.

This book exhibit is designed to arouse the interest of children in reading, to introduce them to "good books, new books, recent books." As a result, the children expressed the wish that some of these books could be either in their homes, or at least in the public library. They are preaching more libraries and more books in Kansas, but they are also trying to stimulate the young people to enjoy reading. There never was a time when there were more interesting and attractive books for young people, so there is no excuse if we fail to awaken in our children a real desire to learn through reading.

I wonder how many of you who have children also know about the William T. Hornaday Foundation. Dr. Hornaday always wanted to "open wide to youth all gateways to nature," so in his memory, this foundation is trying to establish children's museums both in crowded urban areas and in rural areas. I have seen how much the museums planned for their benefit, and I am sure that this is one of the ways in which we can promote a development of a very healthy interest in nature.

Macaroni and Cheese Casserole

Two cups cooked macaroni, three tablespoons margarine, three tablespoons flour, two cups milk, one-half teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, one teaspoon onion juice, one-half teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, one-half cup grated cheese, one-half cup bread crumbs, one tablespoon margarine (additional).

Make a cream sauce by melting the three tablespoons of margarine in a saucepan. Remove from heat and add flour, making a perfectly smooth paste. Return to fire, add milk and stir constantly until thickened. Add salt, pepper, Worcestershire sauce, onion juice and cheese. Hold over hot water or a very low flame until cheese has melted, stirring occasionally. Put macaroni in a greased casserole. Pour sauce over the macaroni and top with bread crumbs. Dot with pieces of margarine from the additional tablespoon, and bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes.

An easy quick dish for luncheon, dinner or supper is hot waffles with a cheese sauce flavored with chopped green or ripe olives.

Saves eggs, milk and cooking fats in breading all fried foods.
